Romulus student honored by President Carter

Doug Domas (second from right) is presented with the President's Physical Fitness Award by Terrel M. LeCesne, principal of Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus. Award was signed personally by President Jimmy Carter. Doug was the only pupil in the school to meet or surpass the 85th percentile mark in six tests - pull-ups, sit-ups, shuttle run, standing long jump, 50-yard dash and 600-yard run. Others in photo met or surpassed these qualifications in five of six events, which

1978 Construction is up $4 million

Year-end reports usually are dull, but one issued Friday by the Romulus building department shows that construction was up more than $4 million in 1978 as compared with the previous year, good news for the community.

buildings accounting for more than half at $114,069.

Of 17 building permits issued last month, eight were for additions and alterations, four for industrial buildings, three signs and two for fences.

"January and April were outstanding months, reaching almost $7 million in construction each..."

The jump in local building prompted Hyle Carmichael, industrial coordinator, to comment, "Romulus is on the move industrially."

January and April were outstanding months, reaching almost $7 million in construction each, with June not far behind at a little over $6 million. December was the worst month, with $161,292 in building construction.

Permit fees for 1978 totalled more than $200,000, with those issued for December construction permits were for: an addition to Children's World, 27975 Eureka Rd.; foundation for an industrial building for Highland Industrial, Highland Road between Wick and Hildebrandt roads; foundation for an industrial building for Highland Industrial, same location; and an auto rental and leasing office for Econo-International, Middlebelt Road between Wick and Hildebrandt roads.

City plans big event at new Silverdome

Members of the joint city-school committee have scheduled a meeting with Detroit Piston basketball officials tomorrow to arrange a "Romulus Night at the Silverdome."

The special event, tentatively planned for late in the basketball season, was suggested by the committee several months ago in a survey distributed to city and school personnel.

Transportation to Pontiac, reduced tickets to the game, reserved seating in a special section and halftime award activities involving city and school leaders are among the topics to be discussed Thursday.

The committee exists to suggest ways the city and schools can cooperate in joint activities, to the benefit of Romulus residents.

The outstanding rookie performance of Romulus High School graduate John Long and the positive publicity generated by such an event were factors in suggesting the activity.

Interested residents should watch this paper for further details.

New supermarket, tool firm get aid from city's EDC

Romulus continued on the road to economic growth Wednesday when the Economic Development Corporation approved participation in construction plans for a new A & P supermarket and a tool company wishing to locate in the city.

An estimated 100 permanent jobs would be created if developers are successful in their plans for a new $2 million A & P grocery, drug store and several other stores in northeast Romulus, according to Pat Hogan, community development director.

He said Metro Plaza Partnership wants to build the business complex on the southwest corner of Van Born and Inkster roads with the help of the EDC.

Recent state legislation permits creation of an EDC in a municipality which can issue tax-exempt bonds whose sale would finance economic development within that community.

Hogan said once the developers for the A & P complex find purchasers for the bonds, they would have to obtain the approval of the site plans by the city planning commission.

With council approval of the project and bonds sold, construction could begin, Hogan said.

The second business venture given the go-ahead by the EDC is Dearborn Tool which wants to spend $1.5 million to purchase and renovate an existing new building at 28875 Smith Road and three acres of adjacent land, Hogan explained.

He said Dearborn Tool already has a purchaser for its tax-exempt bonds and was ready to submit site plans for review by the planning commission.

As in the case of the A & P business complex, once bonds are sold, remodeling can begin on the Smith Road building, she said.

Hogan said most EDC tax-exempt bonds are usually bought by banks and insurance companies. The approval Wednesday by the Romulus EDC therefore indicated its willingness to aid the two business projects locate in the city, Hogan said.

VB board gets moral support on sewer stand

The recent stand taken by the Van Buren Township Board on a sewer hookup and which landed them in jail has the moral support of many of the township throughout the state.

Supt. Pat Cullin last week attended the annual convention of the Michigan Township Association in Grand Rapids where she found almost unanimous backing for her township's refusal to allow a mobile home park to connect to a nearby sewer system.

"Every member that I talked to about our case was behind us 100 percent," she commented.

The association's planning and zoning consultant, Bob Hotaling, a professor at Michigan State University, said he could not believe what had happened in Van Buren, Cullin said, after she had discussed the matter with him.

The board had refused an order from Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman to allow three mobile home park developers to connect to the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority. The judge had the board jailed Dec. 28, but they were freed the next day by the Court of Appeals. The board refused on the grounds that further pollution would occur in Belleville Lake and that the interests of the township's 20,000 inhabitants were more important than 450 mobile home dwellers.

Last week, the board's attorney, Richard G. James, filed briefs with the Michigan Court of Appeals in regard to their request for a stay of Judge Kaufman's order. On Jan. 26, the lawyers for the mobile home park developers will file their briefs. The case for the appeal of the contempt of court charge is scheduled to be heard by the Court of Appeals Jan. 26.

All of the township board members indicated they would go to jail again if they had to. However, supporters throughout the township have circulated petitions backing their stand, but expressing the belief the board could better fight the pollution battle from township hall than from jail.

The mobile home park developers and the township board have been at odds over the issue since 1970.

Floors too slick

Hope rugs stop falls at city hall

The halls of Romulus City Hall may soon be graced with the addition of carpeting, but the reason is not for the sake of beauty alone.

In a recent memorandum to Mayor William M. Oakley, Raymond Cantrell, purchasing director, noted the increasing number of persons who have slipped and fallen on the slick hard surface of city hall passage ways.

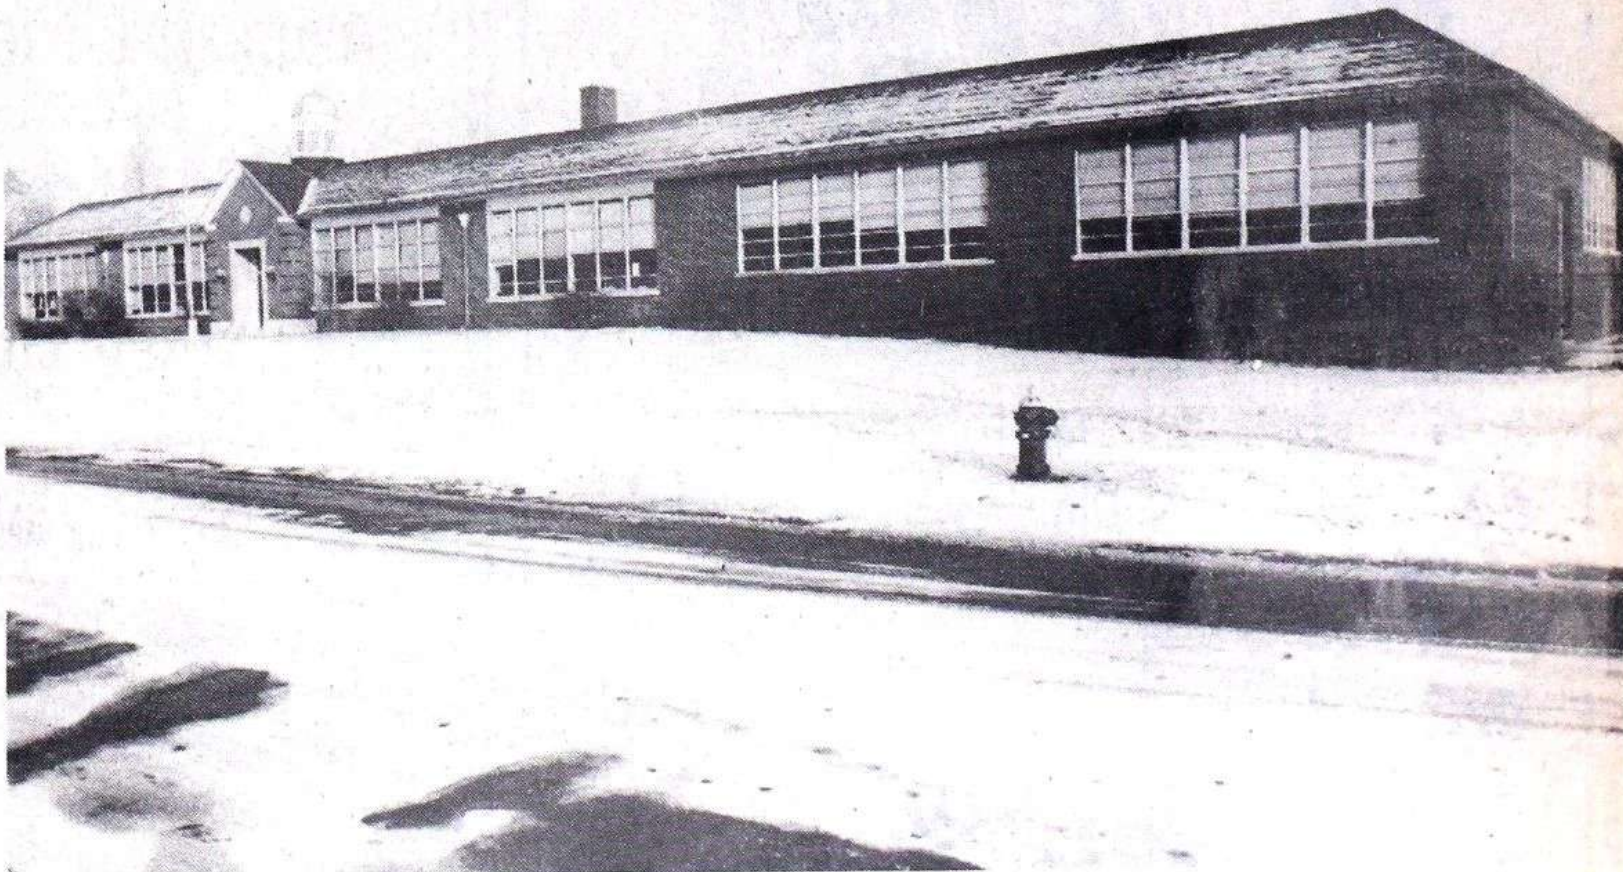

To back up his directive Cantrell informed the mayor that one city employee, a woman, had fallen and sprained her back and is currently receiving medical treatment for the injury.

In addition, he reported that four visitors to city hall also had fallen in recent days on the terrazzo floors, but fortunately had not been hurt. He suggested that city council give authorization to let bids for new carpeting for the halls, which he estimated would cost about $8,000.

The mayor prudently brought the matter up before council last week (Tuesday). Council members were quick to okay the letting of bids for the new carpet.

Which all goes to prove that the various arms of government can and will cooperate when the safety and welfare of the public mandates such action.

School eyed for site of senior high-rise

The old Romulus Elementary School, Bibbins and Olive streets, will be torn down and replaced by a senior citizen high-rise building in the near future if everything comes off as scheduled. Project stirred up considerable controversy from some citizens who would rather have the high-rise located elsewhere in Romulus School, which will be used only for remainder of current school year.

Or put on a hat

Are your feet cold? Then check footgear

If your feet are cold, put your hat on. If that doesn't work, look to your footgear.

"Your feet and your head probably are the two most important parts of the body to keep warm," said Paul Risk, Michigan State University Extension specialist in park and recreation resources. "Even at relatively high temperatures — around 40 degrees — the average person loses 50 percent of the heat his body produces, if his head is uncovered. At 5 degrees, you lose 75 percent. Oftentimes, covering your head to conserve that heat will enable you to warm your own feet."

That's not to say that it doesn't matter what kind of footwear you choose for outdoor activities in cold weather, Risk noted. Selecting footgear appropriate to your activity is very important in keeping you comfortable.

The best type of boot for you depends largely on whether you'll be moving around a lot or staying relatively still. Boots for hiking and snowshoeing, for instance, need not be so thickly insulated as boots for snowmobiling or icefishing. Hiking boots need gripper soles of some sort and better foot support.

"The ice fisherman needs a boot primarily for insulation," Risk pointed out. "All it has to do is keep his feet warm and dry while he's sitting or standing on the ice. A hiking boot, on the other hand, needs to support the foot and ankle and provide good traction and protection against briars. It also should be waterproof and well enough insulated to keep the feet dry and warm."

Boots are available with leather, nylon and rubber uppers and a wide variety of sole materials and textures, Risk observed. Leather, lace-up boots generally were designed for use under moderate temperatures. Those with nylon uppers and rubber soles tend to be warmer, but they're a little floppy for snowshoeing and similar activities.

"Right now it's a status thing to wear ankle-high mountaineering boots," Risk observed. "They have cleated soles, which are good for clinging to narrow ledges, but their steel shank makes them too inflexible for comfortable hiking. They're also very heavy and not insulated well enough for cold weather use."

One of the warmest boots around is the "Mickey Mouse" boot worn by U.S. troops in Korea. These boots are so heavily insulated that it doesn't matter that the wearer's feet get soaked with perspiration. With any other boot, wet feet means cold feet.

"Moisture transfers heat away from the body much faster than air at the same temperature," Risk explained. "It also fills up the pores in insulating material, replacing pockets of air in the material with pockets of water. The more a boot acts like a vapor barrier and prevents moisture from escaping, the more likely it is that your feet will get wet and cold."

Anyone planning to be active outdoors in cold weather should carry at least one extra pair of felt inner boots and a change of socks, Risk advised. Being able to exchange wet ones for dry can make the difference between warm, comfortable feet and cold feet or even frostbite.

For good traction, Risk recommended cleats over any other type of sole — "It's like the difference between snow tires and slicks." He doesn't recommend corrugated soles. The crosswise ridges allow the foot to slip sideways.

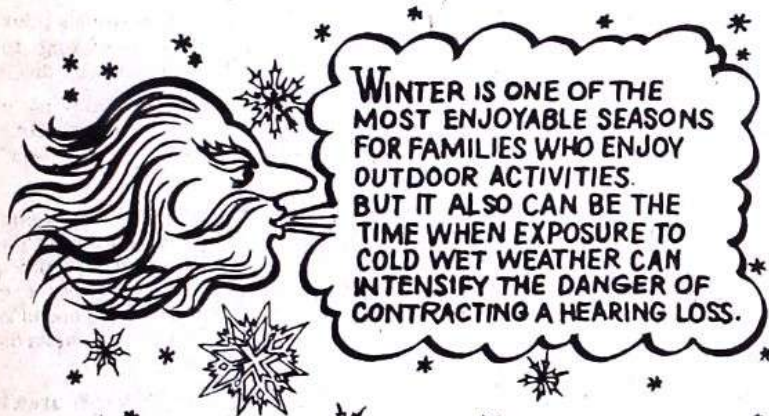

Ankle-high boots probably are high enough for most people under normal conditions. Higher boots may be necessary for keeping snow out or protecting the leg against briars or other hazards. If snow is your only worry, he suggested buying a pair of waterproof gaiters to wear over short boots.

When buying boots, as any other footwear, be sure to wear the socks you plan to use with them when you try them on. Two pair usually are recommended — a thin cotton sock with a thick wool one over it. Two socks help insulate the foot and minimize blistering — they will move against each other so the boot doesn't rub against the foot. Because these fibers are absorbent, they also help to keep the foot dry.

One final note: There is no such thing as "a boot for all seasons," Risk said. A boot that is comfortable in winter will be too hot in summer. A summer boot may keep you reasonably warm in cold weather as long as you're active, but as soon as you stop moving, you're going to get cold.

Romulus graduates surveyed

Romulus Senior High School once again is conducting its annual survey of high school graduates.

Members of the 1979 graduating class will be asked to complete a series of questions on whether they are working, are in the military service, are continuing their education or are unemployed.

The purpose of the survey is to find out what the graduates are doing and how well they feel school programs served their needs. Information obtained from the survey will be used in planning better school programs.

The surveys are being done in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Education and the U.S. Office of Education. The surveys were mailed to graduates Dec. 27, 1978, and must be returned by no later than Feb. 1 to the high school.

Night ski set for Sat.

A "Night Ski" will be held at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Saturday at 7 p.m.

Cross-country skiers are invited to join park naturalists Bob Wittershiem and Fred Wooley for an evening ski tour on a newly developed 3-mile trail.

Participants must supply their own equipment, and advanced registration is required for this free program.

A Milk-Curdling Course

America's first collegiate-ranked dairy school was established at the University of Wisconsin on Jan. 3, 1890. The first year saw a mere two students enroll, but that was adequate because there were only two courses: Testing Milk and Farm Churning. Within a few years, however, dairy courses were quite acceptable and enrollment swelled. Many of the fascinating stages in the development of the dairy industry are visible on a walk through the Home Arts Collection of Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn, Mich.

Vial of Life kits get dusty; county official taken to task

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

If there are 20,000 Vial of Life kits in total, with some 1,000 already distributed to suburban senior citizens, one might logically deduce that 19,000 have not.

Good deduction.

In fact, that's the same conclusion five Wayne County commissioners arrived at after learning that the bulk of the medical emergency kits supplied to the county by Michigan Blue Cross and Blue Shield have been gathering dust in storage at Wayne County General Hospital's senior center in J Building.

Mincing no words, William Joyner, 27th District county commissioner representing the Canton, Wayne, Westland and Belleville areas, and Kay Beard, county commissioner from Inkster, castigated the county's Office of Aging director for failing to distribute the kits to suburban senior citizen nutrition sites as originally scheduled in October.

"You've received an enormous amount of positive ink from the newspapers on this project, yet you're sitting back and holding on to them (the vials) at the J Building," Joyner said. "Well, I for one am not willing to sit back and see this happen anymore."

It was Dante Divitto, the county director on aging who released the damaging evidence of the kits' whereabouts to commissioners after being summoned to appear before the Human Resources Committee.

The interrogation by the county officials began last Wednesday afternoon, and ended with still another cross-examination session scheduled for today at 10 a.m. at the seniors center at the county hospital's J Building in Westland.

Of the commissioners in attendance, Joyner and Beard were most vocal. Both more than hinted that the Vial of Life kits project has met a near collapse due to top-level mismanagement in Divitto's department.

Divitto was called on the carpet by Joyner, who asked why seniors were deprived of their kits designed to contain vital medical facts on the senior's physical health.

The director on aging replied that the 48 out-county nutrition sites, as far as he was concerned, should not be serviced until a follow-up survey was outlined by his department to assure the materials once delivered would be updated on an on-going basis.

He also said the delay in delivering the kits was due to a layoff of county employees that cut 41 employees from his department alone.

His third reason for the project's delay was that he was not called into the program to assist and direct until near the "tailend."

Divitto added that he thought Joyner, specifically, was conducting a "hatchet job" on him, and that the interrogation made by Joyner was just a "political play."

Two weeks ago, after first being confronted with the commissioners' displeasure with the project's tardiness, Divitto promised suburban senior coordinators that the kits would be delivered to their areas by Jan. 5.

Jan. 5 came and went, and still no kits.

Now, Divitto, laboring on his third to-be-kept promise, is looking to Feb. 1 as his target delivery date.

Joyner and Beard say they have little faith in Divitto meeting that deadline, based on his poor past performance.

According to Divitto, he hand delivered Vial of Life kits to the City of Detroit early on in the program's life, and some commissioners are speculating that the issue is one of a Western Wayne County suburbs versus Detroit.

"Obviously, the suburbs aren't getting the same kind of service Detroit is," Joyner said.

Outside of the committee room Divitto lambasted a Detroit commissioner for not coming to his defense.

The commissioner, Martha Scott, responded: "Well you know they're Western Wayne County commissioners. . . , so what could I say."

Commissioners watched while Joyner attempted to stab holes into Divitto's list of reasons for the project's repeated postponements.

"Your involvement began in September. The program began in the middle of August, so you're involvement was early in the program, not at the tailend as you say. "And your so-called elaborate follow-up system that's supposedly delayed the project might perhaps take a day, maybe even an hour or two to institute," Joyner said.

The follow-up system, briefly explained by Divitto, is to have the media — television, radio and newspapers — conduct a comprehensive follow-up survey of the sites to assure that vials are updated and adequately placed in the designated homes.

"I could see a couple of weeks delay at the most . . . but February?" Joyner snapped.

Joyner also said that after the commissioners first confronted Divitto unofficially on the matter, the next day a load of kits were delivered to Sumpter and Van Buren townships.

He also questioned whether 1,000 kits were adequate for Sumpter, "one of the poorest communities in Wayne County."

In November the senior coordinator for the Belleville, Sumpter and Van Buren township communities first brought the problem of the missing vials to Joyner's attention.

Virginia Melcher, the Belleville senior coordinator, told Joyner and Associated Newspapers that more than 3,500 senior citizens reside in her areas, and many had been waiting for the kits since October when first promised delivery.

Criticism of Divitto was not confined to the Vial of Life Project. Beard questioned why Divitto never approached the commissioners about a free kitchen facility, valued at about $10,000 that was offered by a group in New Jersey for the county's J Building and was turned down by Divitto.

"I know he said he couldn't pay for the transporting of it with his budget, but, my God, he should have told us before he turned the facility offer down. It was free, we could have saved the money we're spending to buy a kitchen now by maybe appropriating the special funds to transport the kitchen," Beard said. "... if only the man had come to us."

At least three commissioners have said that consideration is being given for Divitto's termination from his directorship.

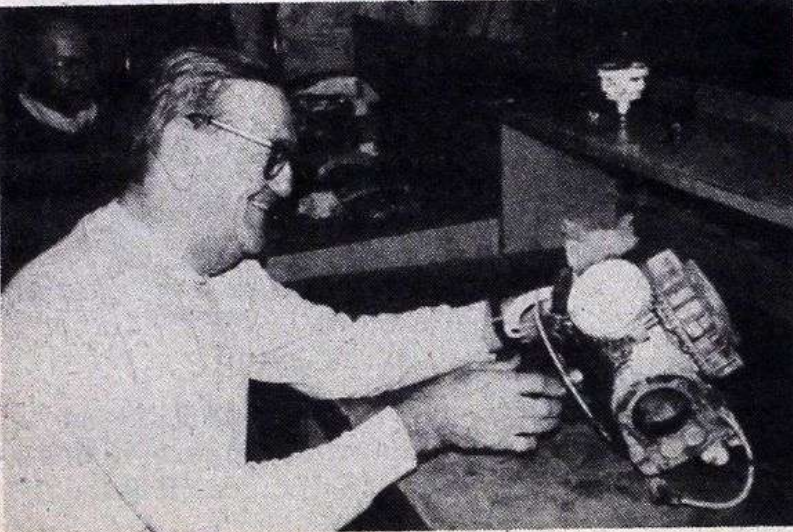

"... It might be necessary," said Beard. "Right now we're not getting value received for services, and if things don't change it might come to that . . . who knows?"

Commissioners unanimously agreed that Divitto must appear before the full board once a month with a detailed project update report and short- and long-term future goal reports complete with detailed budget estimates.

Divitto pulled off his eyeglasses and stormed out of the session with a small entourage of subordinates.

When in the corridor he shouted: "When is anyone going to come to Dante Divitto's defense. When are you going to stand up for me . . ."

"We've worked our asses off, and I'm furious over this."

Barriers boost noise

Wayne County Commissioner R. William Joyner has requested the State Highway Department to conduct tests to determine whether a new concrete sound barrier installed along the I-275 freeway to reduce noise is actually having the opposite effect.

Joyner was prompted to seek action because homeowners between Schoolcraft and Ford Road along the freeway have been complaining that vehicular noise has increased since installation of the 10-foot wall.

"I am receiving more complaints each day regarding the noise level along I-275," he said in a letter to John Woodford, director of the Department of State Highways in Lansing.

He quoted Peter R. Miller, a Plymouth resident who said, "Before the barrier was completed, we were not the least bit bothered by highway noise. Now we hear every truck that goes by, and during rush hour traffic, the noise is almost deafening!"

Joyner suggested that if the tests conducted by the Highway Department prove that the noise level is accentuated by the wall, a green belt of shrubs and trees could be placed along the barrier to help absorb the noise.

Sheriff's department gives crime seminar

A comprehensive crime prevention seminar, co-sponsored by the Romulus Chamber of Commerce and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, was held last week at the Hilton Inn in Romulus for local business and industrial leaders.

The program covered a wide range of crime prevention techniques, presented in part by representatives from firms who sell or lease security equipment. They included companies dealing in surveillance cameras, alarm systems, security locking devices, and protective fencing.

The program began with two films dealing with theft and basic building security, followed by the various speakers and a luncheon. In the afternoon, the meeting concluded with a short lecture by city attorney Charles Lothar who told the assembled businessmen of some of the problems and procedures involved in prosecuting business-related crimes such as shoplifting, breaking-and-entering and malicious destruction of property.

Several seminar participants said they were impressed with the subject and speakers, although several were unable to attend the entire five-hour presentation.

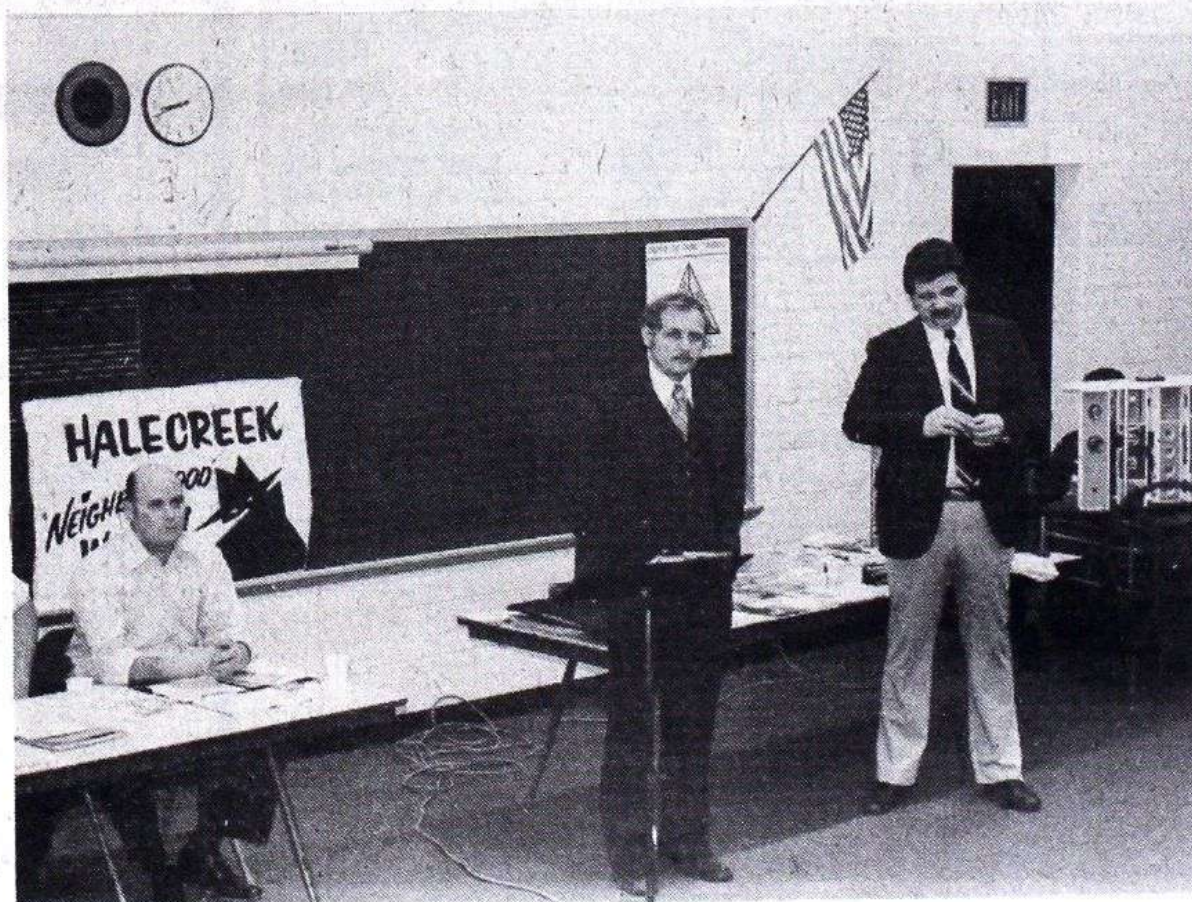

This seminar was the latest in a series of events offered by the Romulus Chamber of Commerce recently. Others have included a fund-raising millionaire's party, as well as an industrial cocktail party in December, co-sponsored by the city.

New fire station to the rescue

Romulus firemen from newly-opened Romulus station No. 4 responded quickly to a deputy sheriff's call for assistance last week on I-94 between Wayne and Merriman roads when a large waste disposal truck from Detroit caught fire while enroute to its landfill site. The incident, which is not uncommon along the expressway, is routine for the Romulus firefighters, who have jurisdiction over the busy interstate highway. Their quick response averted damage to the vehicle and is another example of the cooperation exercised between the police and fire departments. (Photo by Jay Young).

Citizens learn about crime

Romulus detectives Edward Lindberg (center) and Robert Pond (right) discuss the problems of law enforcement and the courts at last week's meeting of the Hale Creek Neighborhood Watch. The group, which meets monthly at the Hale Creek School, offers a variety of crime prevention materials, guest speakers and topics for discussion to interested homeowners in the area. The subject of home security devices was also discussed at the

Due to funding cutback

County layoffs some 500 employees

Some 500 Wayne County employees were forced back into the ranks of the unemployed late last month due to a cutback in federally-funded public service jobs.

The cutback in Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) eliminated jobs in 15 county agencies, many of which were limited duration special projects. Those affected generally made $8,000 per year and worked in seven county agencies and eight public agencies outside the county government.

government.

The largest bloc of layoffs hit four educational institutions where a total of 179 teacher and office aides, clerical and custodial workers were let go. The Wayne County Intermediate School District lost 131, University of Michigan-Dearborn, 32; and the Highland Park and Huron school districts, each 16.

The Wayne County Road Commission lost 128 laborers, most of whom were employed in a park maintenance program.

"We will have to look at the situation by the end of March."

Wayne County Office on Aging lost 39 workers who were employed in the senior citizens nutrition program, telephone reassurance program, adult day care, minor home repair and clerical positions. Communities United For Action (CUFA), the Federally-assisted economic opportunity agency for suburban Wayne County, lost 75 persons who worked in home repair and winterization programs for low-income senior citizens.

Other reductions at community agencies were Family and Neighborhood Services (22), Downriver Community Conference (22), and R.E.A.L., a Downriver mental health project (6).

County agencies losing CETA workers also include the Clerk's file modernization project (23), Sheriff's department (8), TB task force (7), 4-H Youth project (6), and the Prosecuting Attorney (3). They worked in clerical jobs.

This year's federal allocation of $27.9 million required a 20 percent reduction in the number of long-term public service employment jobs with the county and community agencies under jurisdiction of his office, according to Arthur Lewis, director of the Wayne County Office of Manpower (WCOM).

The county office administers the CETA program for 40 of the 43 municipalities in Wayne County. Because of their size, Detroit, Dearborn and Livonia handle their own programs.

Lewis said a placement program has been set up to help the laidoff workers find jobs in the private sector or other CETA job or training positions.

Lewis said local communities have been asked to return any CETA funds they cannot use so that the money may be used to reinstate laid-off participants. Those recalled will be residents of the communities which return funds, he added.

Lewis said the CETA work force in Wayne County doubled to about 4,000 last year, but due to funding restrictions, has to be reduced back to about 2,000 by the end of the current fiscal year, which began Oct. 1.

"We hope to accomplish this by attrition which has been running about 15 percent per month, but probably won't continue at that level. We will have to look at the situation by the end of March. More layoffs may be necessary," Lewis said.

In all, Lewis said, programs funded through his office will have to be reduced by a total of about $5 million this year.

State's Right-to-know Act opens employer records to employees

The new year has brought new rights for all employees in Michigan. Starting Jan. 1, the Employee Right-to-Know Act, sponsored by State Rep. Perry Bullard (D-Arn Arbor), gave public and private employees in Michigan extensive rights to see and obtain copies of their own personnel file information.

The act, P.A. 397 of 1978, gives workers the right to view and obtain, at cost, copies of personnel file information affecting employment, promotions, transfers, additional compensation or disciplinary action. It also permits employees to add their own statements when they disagree with unfavorable entries in their file.

"1979 will herald a new era in employee-employer relations, one which will permit the worker to be privy to personnel information which affects the course of his or her working life," Bullard said.

The law also protects free speech rights for all employees. Under provisions of the law, the employer is prohibited from gathering or using information on political or religious activity. Derogatory or disciplinary information more than four years old may not be circulated, and the employee must be notified in writing by the employer when any disciplinary information is sent to a third party. If an employer refuses to comply with the law, the employee may commence action in Circuit Court and $200 plus costs, attorney's fees and actual damages may be awarded, if the act has been violated.

"While the legislation was designed to protect employees from unfair decisions, based on false or secret information," said Bullard, "it also will contribute to better worker-management relations by assuring employees of the fairness of the information used in management decisions."

The legislation permits an employee or former employee to review personnel records at reasonable intervals upon a written request, twice in a calendar year. The review would take place at a location reasonably near the place of employment and during normal office hours.

It is the result of compromise efforts negotiated in several sessions with the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, Michigan Manufacturer's Association, representatives of major corporations and employee groups. Initiated in May 1977, the bill was signed into law in August 1978.

Red Cross offers sports safety tips

Here's some tips from the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross on ice sport safety.

WHERE TO SKATE

(1) Ponds, flooded hollows, slowly flowing streams and small lakes generally provide the safest outdoor skating. These freeze more quickly than large bodies of water, and the ice formed usually is smoother and more durable.

(2) Skate in a supervised area where the ice is at least three to four inches thick and the water under the ice is no more than waist deep. Never skate alone.

(3) Snowmobiling, ice boating and the like require a seven or eight inch base for safety.

WHERE NOT TO SKATE

(1) Ice formed over moving water is likely to be unsafe no matter how thick it is.

(2) Ice clouded with air bubbles usually is weak and should be avoided.

(3) Snowmobiling, ice boating and the like require a seven or eight inch base for safety.

(3) Be on the look out for partially submerged obstacles (such as stumps and rocks) and manmade hazards (such as holes where ice has been broken or cut). Ice will be weaker at these points.

(4) Avoid crystalized ice which, even when two feet thick, can crumble under your weight.

(5) Avoid large groups — spread out on the ice.

EMERGENCIES

(1) If you fall through the ice, don't panic. Extend both arms along the surface of the ice, then kick hard. This will avoid jack-knifing your body below the surface of the ice and will help lift your body onto solid ice. Then, maintaining a level position to distribute your weight on the ice, roll to safety.

(2) If you see an accident, don't stand near the ice break. Approach the victim by laying on the ice and inching forward. If available, throw a looped rope, life preserver, automobile tire or use a tree branch, ladder or pole to reach the victim and pull him to safety. If these materials are unavailable, it may be necessary to form a human "chain." Each rescuer moves as closely to the victim as safety allows and, lying in a line, each person holds tightly to the skates or ankles of the person ahead of him. If possible, the lightest person should be closer to the victim. When the lead person grasps the victim, the person nearest the shore pulls the others back.

(3) Get the victim to warm shelter immediately. Remove wet clothing and wrap the person in blankets or put him in a tub of warm (not hot) water. Give the person something hot to drink. Victims of prolonged immersions in cold water should always be seen by a physician.

Call 833-4440 for information on water safety and first aid courses offered by the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Metropark winter facilities now open

With southeastern Michigan in a winter "deep freeze", several facilities for winter sports now are open at the Huron-Clinton Metroparks.

Because snow and ice conditions vary daily, it is suggested that persons contact the metroparks to check on facilities available daily. The parks, facilities and phone numbers are listed below.

Vehicle entry permits are required and are annual regular, $7, senior citizen, $2, or daily, $2 year-around.

Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville offers cross-country skiing, sledding or tobogganing on moderate slopes and ice skating (weather permitting).

Three natural rink surfaces are excellent for hockey or general skating, located in a ravine where skating is permitted until 10 p.m. daily. Lights and wood for rinkside fires are provided and nearby there are heated restrooms.

The park entrance is on Hannan Road, just a quarter mile south of Huron River Drive via the Haggerty Road Interchange along the Edsel Ford (I-94) Freeway between Detroit Metropolitan Airport and the Belleville exit. Park hours are daylight to 10 p.m.

For ice and snow conditions phone 697-9181 (Belleville).

Willow Metropark between New Boston and Flat Rock features cross-country skiing, sledding and tobogganing on moderate slopes (weather permitting).

The most ideal location for sledding and tobogganing is at the Chestnut Picnic Area. There are no specially developed runs for tobogganing.

The park entrance is along Willow Road. Park hours are daylight to 10 p.m. For snow conditions phone 697-9181 (Lower Huron Metropark in Belleville).

Kensington Metropark near Milford, one of the most popular winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan, has facilities for ice skating, tobogganing, sledding, cross-country skiing and ski rentals, ice fishing, nature hikes and photography.

Ice thickness on Kent Lake is 6 to 8 inches, however, persons should always carefully check ice conditions. Bluegills, crappies or pike are the main catches for ice fishermen and there are only a few shanties on Kent Lake at present.

Ice skating is excellent at both the general skating and hockey rinks located on Kent Lake in front of the Boat Rental Building.

The toboggan runs, hilly slopes for sledding and cross-country ski trails are open, but conditions are variable and not yet at their best. Cross-country ski rental service is available, also weather permitting.

The nature trails are open year-around, with bird feeding stations and animal tracks of special interest in the winter.

Park hours are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. For ice and snow conditions contact Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

Hudson Mills Metropark, located 12½ miles northwest of Ann Arbor and near the Village of Dexter, has excellent conditions for cross-country skiing.

For information contact Hudson Mills Metropark, 8801 N. Territorial Road, Dexter 48130, or call 426-8211 (Dexter).

Park hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Through county college

Registration opens for CS-CE classes

A new program to assist Indo-Chinese refugees and courses in driver training, sign language, death and dying, European history (via television), and foreign policy will highlight the winter term of the Wayne County Community College Community Services - Continuing Education Program. These are among nearly 40 winter classes most of which will begin the week of Feb. 5 at some 15 locations throughout Wayne County.

The Indo-Chinese program will offer a variety of classes in English as a Second Language in cooperation with the Michigan Indo-Chinese Resettlement Office. Classes will be available at no cost to participating refugees. Class locations and times will be determined on the basis of the needs of area refugees from Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. Further information on this program may be obtained from Mary Jane Teague at 832-2283.

The driver training course, being offered for the first time, is one of the most comprehensive and inexpensive driver's training programs for adults in the area. It includes four hours in the classroom and 12 hours of on-the-road training.

Classes will be taught at the Austin Center, 18300 E. Warren, Detroit; the Downriver Center, 21000

Northline Road, Taylor; Friendship House, 2031 E. Caniff, Hamtramck; Milton Center, 1771 Henry Ruff Rd., Inkster; Mayflower Congregational Church, 7301 Curtis and WC 3 Greenfield Center, 8551 Greenfield, Detroit.

"Death and Dying: Challenge and Change" is the subject of the winter, 1979 national Courses by Newspaper program which WC3 is offering in cooperation with the Detroit News. The veil of mystery and fear surrounding death and dying will be penetrated through a series of 15 weekly articles in the News beginning Jan. 29 and four classroom discussions with a WC3 instructor, films, guest speakers and field trips. The first class session will be Jan. 29 at 7 p.m. at the Downriver Center.

Also new this term, Great Decisions is a national program that gives Americans of all ages and backgrounds the chance to learn and understand major foreign policy issues facing the United States in this coming year. Eight key international issues which will be explored in depth include the technology explosion, trade and the dollar, dealing with China, the United States and Latin America, Black Africa, World Law of the Oceans and International Terrorism. A special topic has been added on the SALT II treaty. Great Decisions will be taught at the Downriver Center in Taylor, beginning Feb. 7, from 2-4 p.m.

Tuition is $14 per credit hour with most classes carrying one or 1½ credits. A small fee is added to cover the cost of sponsoring the course or to cover materials. On site registration for any CS-CE classes will be Jan. 25, from 2-5 p.m. and Jan. 26, from 2-7 p.m. at the Austin Interested persons may also register now during office hours at the Community Services office, 4612 Woodward in Detroit, or at the first night of class.

For more information, including a complete schedule of classes, call 832-4750.

Here's some new year resolution for smokers

The American Lung Association offers these suggestions for smokers to start any day — or every day — of the new year.

RESOLVED that I decide here and now to make a commitment to my own body and health and to give myself the respect I deserve.

RESOLVED that I know I can take steps to adopt more positive lifestyles to celebrate life and promote my well-being. I recognize that becoming a nonsmoker is one of those lifestyles.

RESOLVED that I will consider the adverse effects of my smoking on all those around me — at home, at work, in public places, with friends — and I will make a greater effort to avoid polluting the air they must breathe.

RESOLVED that I will take seriously the future effects of my continued smoking, that I will ponder the impact on my life of the possibility of developing severe lung disease or heart distress. I will allow myself to imagine the effects of such a disability — or my early death — on all those who love me.

RESOLVED that I will find out for myself just how easy or how hard it is for me to quit smoking. Many people quit smoking several times, and each time they are actually practicing becoming nonsmokers. Others can quit once and make it stick. I can select bits and parts of a whole variety of techniques and choose how to become a nonsmoker — in my own way.

RESOLVED that I know deep down I can change my behavior and smoking patterns — if I want to enough. I am convinced quitting smoking is one of the best things I can do for myself and those I love.

RESOLVED that I realize I can reach out for all the help and encouragement I need. I don't have to go at it alone, although I can if I want. I can also join a group with others who want to stop smoking. I can ask for all the help I want — from my family, my friends, my co-workers, and from the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan. For more information, call 961-1697.

Sizzle, sizzle...Saganaki comes to Canton

Canton Township has recorded another first.

The township, long noted for its booming growth, now will also be noted for its contribution to the gastronomical well being of its residents, thanks to Steve Stylianou and his Cyprus Gardens Restaurant.

Stylianou, owner of the restaurant located in the Harvard Square Shopping Center last week announced that following approval of his insurance company, a new Greek dish will be added to the menu.

What does an insurance company have to do with Grecian food?

Well, when that food is prepared by a splash of vodka on a special cheese and the application of a match, which creates spectacular flames two feet high, the insurance company is indeed interested.

The new dish, called Saganaki (pronounced Sag-a-na-Key), had only been available before last week at one of Detroit's Greek restaurants.

"This is a first for this area," said Stylianou.

"To my knowledge, there is no other restaurant now serving the Grecian favorite," he said.

Consisting of a special cheese which is first fried in olive oil, Saganaki is then brought to the customer's table where the vodka is poured over it. The hot plate creates the vapors from the vodka which ignite and sear the outside of the cheese.

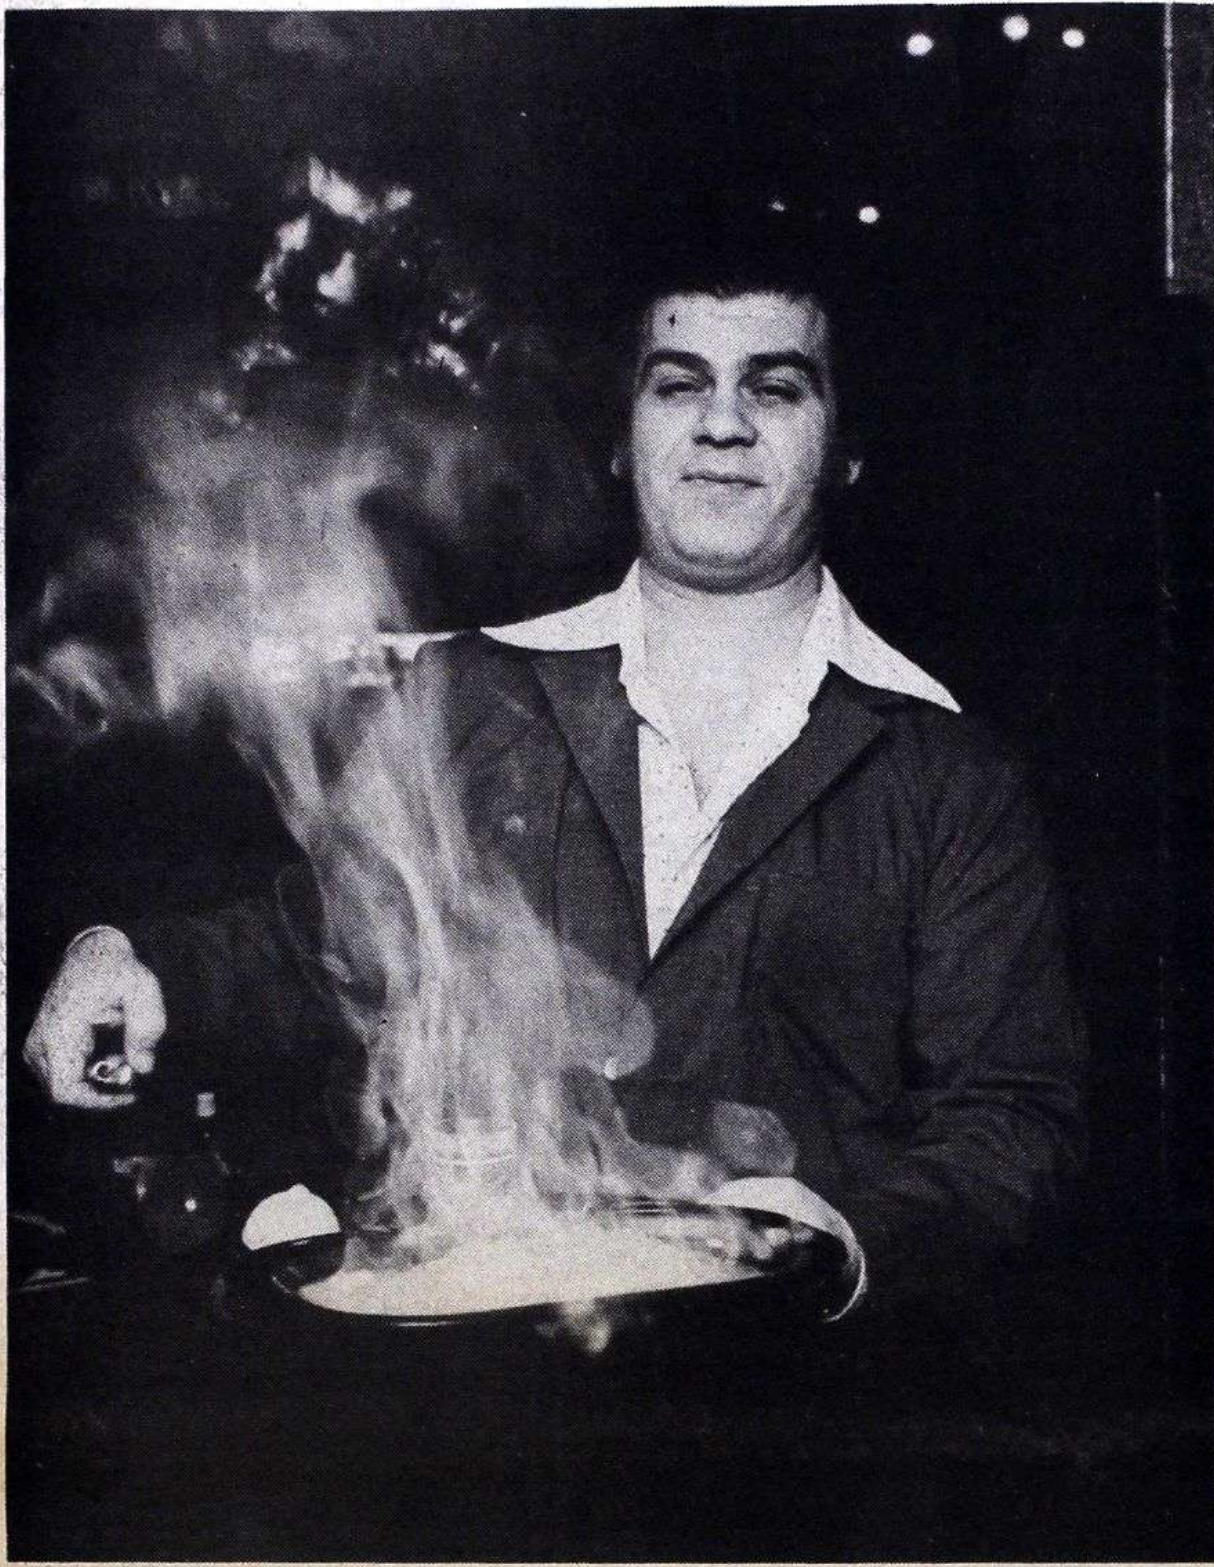

Eaten with fine Greek bread or by itself, the Saganaki maintains a soft interior and delicious exterior, created by the open flame.

Stylianou has been located at his Harvard Square location for the past three years. His restaurant seating almost 100, has come to be considered one of the "in" spots around Canton.

The owner boasts of his cooking abilities learned from working for his relatives in the restaurant business in Dearborn. It was those members of the family who sponsored Stylianou when he made the decision to come to this country in the 1960's.

The Stylianou business is a family affair with wife Rita, supervising the dining room and cooking the many Greek specialty items in her spare time. The five Stylianou children also are in evidence at the restaurant, with two daughters helping to serve customers and the other three kids sitting in a corner doing homework.

The horseshoe crab is thought to be virtually unchanged from its form 300 million years ago.

Tax law alters withholding from unemployment benefits

Although a new federal income tax law makes some unemployment benefits taxable, the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) will not withhold taxes from claimants' benefit checks according to MESC director S. Martin Taylor.

Approximately 500,000 people in Michigan are projected to receive unemployment insurance (UI), Work Incentive Program (WIN) and Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) benefits in 1979.

The Revenue Act of 1978, effective Jan. 1, taxes those benefits depending on marital status and family total adjusted income. Since total family income is not relevant under state law for awarding benefits, it is impossible for the MESC to predict exactly how many claimants will be affected or what the dollar amount of taxes may be.

The MESC is notifying claimants that they will be responsible for paying any income tax owed when they file their 1979 tax returns. The MESC will send each claimant an annual statement of benefits paid to him or her during the calendar year.

Since the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is responsible for interpreting the law, claimants are advised to contact the IRS for official information on whether or not their benefits are taxable, Taylor said.

Copies of claimants' annual statements will be forwarded to the IRS, as well as to any other taxing agency (state, cities, etc.) that may request them.

Condominium project features 'fuel of future'

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

The "fuel" of the future — the sun's warming rays — will debut in Westland in a condominium project being proposed by Silvermode Company on nine acres of land at Hix Road in the northwest part of the city.

The company, and the solar energy concept, are the pet projects of Westlander Robert Stremich, who lives next to the site where he wants to build 15 units, each with two side-by-side condominiums.

Stremich and his architect, Erick Carne, presented preliminary plans to the Westland City Council at a study sessions recently. Their plans are far from finalized, but were solid enough to produce a tentative site plan sketch, floor plan of the 1,900- and 1,500-square foot condominiums, and information on how they will use the sun for heat.

The project is being called Anthony's Pond. The buildings on the nine-acre parcel will surround and oblong pond named for Anthony Zielasko, who was a resident of the area for 65 years and former owner of the land.

The place is described as a quiet setting that probably will be suited to residential needs of retired and semi-retired "empty-nested" people, the architect explained.

The pond should enhance the quiet setting, and will be complete with a "picturesque" island, gazebo and bridge.

The condominiums will be side by side, sharing a common wall. The architect doesn't like to call them duplexes, using instead the phrase single family attached.

Preliminary calculating shows that units would be in the $80,000 to $85,000 price range.

Council members were quite impressed with the concept, layout and preliminary planning, and encouraged the developers to continue with their planning. The city officials have been yearning for such "quality" development in the city.

One of the most unique aspects of the plan is the energy conservation and use. First of all, the units would share one common wall as an energy saver. Carne was emphatic, however, that the insulation would be enough to separate noise between the two sides.

The condominiums will utilize passive solar energy in one room called the atrium. The "unique living space" will resemble a greenhouse, with a glazed roof, at the entrance to the home. This, quite simply, will let the sun in to heat the area, and possibly spread to the rest of the home particularly in the summer, as well as winter months when the sun is shining.

The roof of the unit will be mounted with solar panels, as well. The solar energy gathered there will be used for the hot water system, taking care of 55 percent of hot water heating, Carne said. The solar panels collect the rays in an insulated area, then the heated water would be taken down and

Discovery becomes his 'hot hobby'

BY MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

About a year and a half ago, Bob Stremich "discovered" something that he'd been taking for granted for a few dozen years. And since then, he's made it a hobby and obsession to find out all he can about it, and spread the word.

The object of his affection is the sun, or, more specifically, the heat that comes from it. Bob Stremich is Westland Number 1 promoter of solar energy, and will gladly talk to you about it as long as you're willing to listen.

But Stremich, who is also a member of Westland's Economic Development Corporation, is more than a talker. A doer from way back, Stremich is in the process of building a solar house, actually a small addition to his garage barn behind his home on Hix Road.

He expects to generate enough heat from the sun to run a greenhouse and to heat his entire garage, with minimal, if any, help from conventional heating devices. And the more he reads about solar energy, the more he is sold on the concept. There isn't a doubt in his mind that within a few years time this country won't have to worry about the whims of the oil producing nations.

Stremich is so confident in solar energy that he's in the process of planning a condominium development on acreage behind his home that would utilize the sun's energy to heat water, and even heat and cool the units. He's also planning an office building and apartment complex to be built in Plymouth, complete with solar energy gathering devices.

And he's got an eye toward converting the water heating system in his restaurant — Plymouth's Hillside Inn — to solar energy. Stremich long ago won Plymouth architect Erick Carne to his solar way of thinking.

Things that matter: Praying for plants?

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

Each member of the Sunday-afternoon prayer circle took the bottle of spring water in his hands, prayed over it and passed it on to the next person.

When the bottle had gone the rounds, it was given a closing group prayer. All told, it took about 20 minutes.

Then the water was poured into a pan in which eight kernels of corn had been planted. Into another pan in which eight kernels of corn also had been planted, un-prayed-for water was poured.

Two Sundays later the members of the prayer group saw the result. Seven corn seedlings had sprouted in the pan with the prayed-for water. Only three seedlings had come up in the other pan.

That first prayer-for-plants experiment by the Religious Research Foundation of America Inc. was conducted in 1952.

It started a controversy that still is raging: "Can prayer make your petunias grow?"

There are scientists who will answer yes and scientists who will scoff and say no.

Botanist Dr. George Milstein agrees that prayer might indeed make plants grow — "if you pray out loud."

It is Milstein's theory that certain sounds open plant cells, allowing the cells to take in additional carbon dioxide from the air. This is then converted by the plant into growth-promoting sugars and starches.

Music provides the best cell-opening vibrations, in Milstein's opinion. He has released an album titled, "Music to Grow Plants By."

Cleve (c.q.) Backster, a New York polygraph expert, is another who has experimented with the effect of human thought on plant growth.

One day, just to satisfy his curiosity, he attached a lie detector to a leaf of the philodendron plant in his office.

Then he "decided to try an equivalent of the threat-to-well-being principle which is an established method of triggering emotionality in human beings."

He reached in his pocket for a match to burn the plant leaf.

"At the instant of my decision to do this," he says, "I noticed a dramatic change in the tracing pattern on the polygraph chart. There was an abrupt, prolonged upward sweep of the recording pen."

"The leaf, responding instinctively to the impact of a threatening thought, exhibited apparent human emotional response."

Backster later experimented with African violets, animal tissue, chicken eggs and the bacteria in yogurt. His findings were the same:

"Cells have consciousness, they have reactions to different kinds of thought, can communicate with other cells and are sensitive to the destruction of one another."

From all of this Backster drew the conclusion that happy, optimistic thoughts have a similar positive effect on the cellular well-being of people, whereas negative and threatening thoughts have a destructive effect.

In his book, "The Power of Prayer on Plants," Rev. Franklin Loehr, a Presbyterian minister who started the Religious Research Foundation, says: "Our prayer-plant research first established the fact that prayer is an objective energy — real in itself and not just a state of mind."

Prayer is a force that can make a difference in the way seeds sprout and grow."

Loehr feels this ability of prayer to stop growth may have special significance in the prayer treatment of cancer.

His 'discovery' becomes his 'hot' hobby

Solar energy comes to Westland

But while these projects make their way from the drawing board to reality, he's trying out the theories in his mini solar house, attached to the southern wall of his garage.

He's been building it for about a year, a natural extension of his love of mechanical work. It is enclosed by double paned tempered glass on the sides and slanted roof.

The concept of solar heating goes far beyond "passive" energy. To use the sun's rays passively, you simply let the sunshine pour in through the glass.

But the real key to solar energy is storing the warmth so it can be used at times when the sunshine is not streaming in.

The glass-enclosed solar house attached to the garage has underneath it four tanks that hold 1,200 gallons of water. They are surrounded by styrofoam, sand, plywood and other insulating material, plus a 12-inch layer of limestone.

Those tanks will be used to heat the garage. The water will be heated in large solar panels on top of the building, then piped underground to be stored. Once all the water is heated, and when the sun is gone, the water will be recirculated and air passed over the pipes to warm it. The air will flow into the garage, heating it.

In the solar greenhouse itself, a different system will be utilized, Stremich explained. Lining the floor of the house under the shelving will be five-gallon containers of water and salt. At 80 degrees, the salt will turn to liquid, as the sun pours in and heats the room during the day. When the temperature falls below 80 degrees, the salt will solidify again, releasing the heat.

Stremich has already begun charting temperatures inside the solar house, although none of the piping and water devices are working yet. Simply through the passive collection of heat through the glass, his results show that the heat it there for the taking.

He calculates what kind of solar day it is — 90 percent, for instance, would be sunny, 30 percent, very cloudy. He's been taking readings at noon. On Dec. 23, when it was 45 degrees outside, it was 116 degrees in the house, and that was a 95 percent solar day.

On Jan. 3, when it was 3 degrees outside, he got a temperature of 74 degrees inside the greenhouse.

Another part of the plan to capture and keep energy will be to install a type of insulating shield or curtain that at night would cover the glass and help keep heat in.

Stremich will need some electrical power to operate the pumping and blowing of air and water in the solar system, and he has his very own windmill on order right now to generate the energy.

As he talks, the Westlander cites example after example of solar energy projects throughout the country. He reads everything he can find on both the concept and on buildings that have actually been built. He has travelled to other parts of the country to see solar powered and heated homes and buildings.

He said he loves working on the project, and his animated conversation verifies this interest.

Because he's far from done with his solar greenhouse, Stremich is not ready to "go public" with it, and has shied away from the camera.

But if the sun ever had a good public relations man in Westland, Stremich is it. There will be widespread use of solar energy in the country, he insists, and it's only a matter of a very short time.

Right now, Stremich is just a bit ahead of everybody else.

Condominium project has 'fuel of future' in plans stored under the unit, recalled when it is needed in the house.

The developers also will offer an additional optional solar heating system, if the resident wants more energy to supplement the home's conventional fuel heating system.

The 1,900-square foot units will have three bedrooms, family room, kitchen living room, atrium, entry court, garage and a courtyard. The 1,500-square foot units will have two bedrooms, and a den instead of a family room, plus the other features.

Solar energy will not totally heat the homes, but with the hot water heating and passive energy from the sun, there would be an overall energy gain, Carne said.

Although the project is for the most part still in the concept stage, the study session was held to get a consensus from the council before proceeding with further planning. Carne noted that the next step in design would be costly, so he wanted to make sure reaction from the council was favorable before taking that step.

Silvermode also is planning a second development called Oakwood Meadows, on 20 acres of land on the east side of Hix Road north of Koppnick. Again, the plan calls for two units to be side-by-side.

They, too, would be 1,900 or 1,500 square feet in size. The concept is to sell the two-family units "for personal and investment residential land use." They would market the units as an opportunity for a person to buy the whole building, live in one side and rent out the other. The large lots proposed would leave considerable room for preservation of wooded areas. Since the two units would be side-by-side, side yards would be quite large. Plans call for 20 lots, two residences per lot.

Planning Director Dale Farland was uncertain as to how the two developments should or could be zoned in the present zoning ordinances. The Oakwood Meadows development, for instance, might require classification under some new provision that would allow for zero lot lines to let side-by-side units be on separate lots.

The zoning questions have been turned over to the city attorney.

No-fault insurance could be 'model' on nationwide basis

(This is one in a series of public service articles explaining, in general terms, a provision of Michigan Law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

By ATT. GEN. FRANK KELLEY

Michigan's no-fault insurance law is widely looked to as a model for similar legislation on a nationwide basis. A little known facet of that law underscores part of the reason Michigan's no-fault insurance law is so highly regarded.

It's the "Assigned Claims Facility" which is designed to provide hospital and medical treatment for those individuals who are not required to carry insurance under the law and are injured through no fault of their own.

Suppose, for example you are hospitalized after being struck by a hit-and-run motorist?

Or, what happens if you are injured while riding in a neighbor's car on which the insurance has lapsed because of nonpayment of premiums? If you do not have insurance, who is responsible for the medical bills? Who is responsible for the wages you might lose?

In both cases, if you, the injured party, were uninsured, actual medical expenses could well be covered under the "Assigned Claims Facility".

When the Michigan Legislature initiated no-fault insurance in October 1973, it created the facility to protect those people not required to carry insurance who might sustain auto-related injuries.

Any uninsured person injured in a car accident in which the vehicle is not insured (or in a hit-and-run accident in which the vehicle is not identified) can get coverage through the Assigned Claims Facility.

Any person can file a claim with the facility by writing: 3222 South Logan, Lansing 48910.

If a claim is deemed proper, it will then be assigned to an insurance company doing business in Michigan, for consideration by that company. If allowed, the injured party will be entitled to the same benefits as someone under no-fault insurance.

The Assigned Claims Facility is intended to help those persons who are not required to carry casualty insurance, but who are injured by an uninsured motorist, or hit-and-run motorist.

Claims will be considered for up to one year from the date of the accident. Anyone having any questions should contact the facility at the above address.

The Assigned Claims Facility does not consider claims for the recovery of property damage.

Fireside chat is planned

A "Fireside Chat" will be held at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Saturday at 10 a.m.

Visitors will have an opportunity to ask the naturalist on duty about a wide range of nature-related subjects. Participants should meet by the fireplace in the nature center lobby. Park maps and other materials will be available.

Vehicle entry permits — annual regular, $7, senior citizen, $2, or daily, $2 — are required.

For additional information contact the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

LOW BACK AND LEG PAIN

This year, nation-wide, hundreds of thousands of people will suffer the disabling effects of spinal injury. Many of these symptoms of defects first appear as pain in the lower back and leg. The Doctor of Chiropractic has learned from long experience that most lower back and related leg pains are caused by physical defects in the alignment of one or several segments of the lower spine. Whenever lower back pain occurs, and persists, see your Doctor of Chiropractic. His experience and training will help you onto the road to recovery.

Experiences teach that for the spine to function properly as a flexible and dependable posture support, and at the same time provide protection for the spinal cord and nerves, each of its segments (vertebrae) must be in precise alignment with connecting segments. In addition, a critical range of movement must be maintained by supporting muscles and ligaments.

A sudden fall, accident or strain from lifting can destroy this delicate balance and precision movement. Another contributing factor can be poor posture. The results of this structurally altered spine is chronic or recurring back pain. It must be remembered that normal strain on a structurally weak back or severe strain on a normal back may be sufficient to displace the vertebrae into out-of-range positions alters the nerve openings, pinching the nerve supplying the adjacent parts of the body. This can result in discomforts and other serious symptoms affecting all parts of the body.

For an example, the spinal nerves supplying energy to the legs pass through tiny openings between vertebrae in the lower spine. When one or several vertebrae are displaced, the nerves may be compressed, causing a nerve pain which extends down the leg. The alignment of the lower back is a vital and necessary part of the well-being of the human body. Care and treatment of existing conditions can prevent serious problems.

Your Doctor of Chiropractic has learned through much study and experience that chronic low back problems respond extremely well to the specialized care of a trained Chiropractor.

January isn't peak time for gardening chores

January isn't exactly a peak time for lawn and garden chores, but they're not as scarce as you might think. Michigan State University Extension specialists suggest the following activities are timely:

— Plant your living Christmas tree soon after the holiday in the hole you dug and mulched before the ground froze.

— Feed wild birds from now until the end of March or even April. Once you've started to feed, don't stop. The birds will come to depend on your feeder and probably will starve if you quit feeding. To keep costs down, decide how much you can afford to spend on bird food and ration that much food over the three or four months. Homemade feed of cracked corn, millet and sunflower seeds will cost less than prepared mixes.

— Protect outdoor plants against mice and other rodents by surrounding trunks or main stems with cylinders of quarter-inch mesh hardware cloth. To be effective, the screen must reach well above the usual snow line.

— Prevent salt damage to landscape plants by shielding plants near roads and streets with burlap or canvas fastened to sturdy stakes. Whenever possible, avoid using deicing salt on your property. If you must use salt on icy area, avoid shoveling salty slush onto lawn areas or into the root zones of valuable plants.

— Try to avoid repeatedly following the same path across the lawn when grass blades are frozen or snow-covered. Worn areas will show up in the spring.

— Build plant, protestors and supports to prevent heavy snow damage to landscape plants. Branches bent under snow or ice this winter may show no signs of injury until next summer. Then, there's nothing you can do.

— Recycle your cut Christmas tree or its branches as plant protectors. Place the tree on the south side of broadleaved evergreens like rhododendrons to shield them from the drying effects of bright winter sunlight.

— Take small branches from quince, pussy willow, forsythia and other spring flowering shrubs and force them into early bloom indoors later this month, in February or in March.

— Save the ashes from your fireplace or wood-burning stove to scatter on garden areas. Ashes contain potash and valuable trace elements.

— Water houseplants sparingly during the winter. Light levels are low, so plants are not growing as rapidly as they did during spring and summer, and they need less water.

— Pinch back the growing tips of geraniums and coleus to encourage them to grow bushy rather than spindly.

— Place houseplants near south windows, if possible, so they can get all the natural light that's available. Turn them regularly so each side gets a chance at the light. Many houseplants will not tolerate chilling, so keep them off cold windowsills and away from cold glass.

— Keep holiday plants out of hot or cold drafts to keep them healthy well into the new year. Water when the soil surface feels dry. Fertilize according to instructions that came with the plants, or follow the directions on any standard houseplant fertilizer.

— Flowering bulbs potted in October can be brought out of cold storage for forcing later this month.

— Plant amaryllis for spring bloom.

— Check Christmas gift plants for insects and treat problems as soon as you spot them to keep them from spreading.

— Check stored bulbs, tubers, corms and fruits and vegetables frequently. Discard any showing signs of rot, disease or insect damage. Severe problems with stored materials may indicate storage place does not provide proper humidity levels, temperatures or ventilation.

— Order seed catalogs now.

— Plan flower beds, vegetable garden and landscape plantings so you can order seeds and plants early.

Treasury replaces E Bond

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has introduced new EE and HH U.S. Savings Bonds to replace the current E and H bonds, effective Jan. 2, 1980, a new exchange offering, and a decision on further extensions for outstanding bonds.

The secretary said the program changes underline the Treasury's interest in strengthening savings bonds as a vital part of its debt management operations. Bonds provide the Treasury with a stable source of funds from millions of citizens, and also provide Americans at all economic levels with an opportunity to save in a safe and convenient manner.

The present E and H bonds will continue to be sold at banks and other savings institutions until Dec. 31, 1979. Final payroll sales of E bonds may continue until June 30, 1980.

The series EE bond — so named because it will double in value between its purchase and maturity dates — will have these new features:

The purchase price will be one-half the face value, for example, $25 will buy a $50 (face value) bond. The lowest available denomination will be $50, face value. Other denominations will be $75, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000.

The interest rate of 6 percent (for 5 or more years) remains, while the term to maturity will be 11 years, 9 months.

The annual limitation on purchases will increase from the present $7,500 (issue amount) to $15,000 (issue amount).

The new EE bonds will be eligible for redemption six months after issue, and the requirement that a bond beneficiary must consent to a change in the bond will be eliminated.

Although the familiar $25 savings bond ($18.75 purchase price) will no longer be available, the new series EE $50 bond can be purchased for $25, an increase of only $6.25 in the minimum purchase price.

The series HH bond will have interest payments at a level 6 percent from day of issue, rather than the present graduated scale.

Bonds purchased for cash (rather than through exchange of other savings bonds and notes) will be subject to an interest penalty, if redeemed before maturity, and the annual purchase limitation will be increased from $10,000 (face amount) to $20,000 (face amount).

The new series HH bonds can be bought for cash, or obtained in exchange for the present series E bonds or savings notes, singly or in combination, in multiples of $500. The new HH bond will have the same maturity period as the H bond — 10 years — and the same denominations, which range from $500 to $10,000.

The earliest E bonds bought between 1941 and April 1952 will not be extended again when they fall due between 1981 and April 1992, after 40 years of interest-bearing life. However, all outstanding series E bonds and savings notes bought after April 1952 will receive a further 10-year extension. This will be the final extension for bonds bought from May 1952 through November 1965.

Series H bonds bought from June 1952 through May 1959 will receive no further extensions. These bonds reach final maturity between February 1982 and May 1989.

Series H bonds bought after June 1959 will receive another 10-year extension, for a total bond life of 30 years, but it will be the final extension for these bonds.

Owners of E bonds and savings notes can exchange them for the new HH bonds after they go on sale Jan 2, 1980. This can be done up to a year after final maturity of the old E bonds.

Shopmen strike Unistrut over contract talks

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Members of the contract negotiating teams for the Shopmen's Local Union No. 831 AFL-CIO were scheduled to meet last week in hopes of ironing out differences which led to a week-old strike at the Wayne Plant.

Some 242 members of the union walked off their jobs at midnight last Tuesday after bargaining sessions between the two parties broke down.

"Economics is the only stumbling block in our bargaining with management," said Robert Dunn, President of the local. "The company has taken a position that it will follow the wage guidelines recently announced by President Carter, and that just isn't enough."

Dunn said that when the union negotiated a contract with Unistrut a few years ago when President Nixon was in office, "there was, at the time, a wage and salary freeze and we went along with it and we're not buying that now."

Pickets were set up in front of the Unistrut plant in Wayne at 4118 South Wayne Rd. Unistrut, whose world headquarters are in Wayne, employs approximately 500 persons at its Wayne offices and plant. The company manufactures fabricated structural steel and has several plants in the state and around the world.

However, only the Wayne facility was effected by the strike.

James Johnson, the local's chief union steward, said that the union is seeking an "across the board 75 cents increase in the first year of a proposed contract, with subsequent increases of 80 and 85 cents the following two years.

"When we started to negotiate on this contract back in October, the company assured us that 'the money was there', that there would be no problem with the economic package," according to Johnson, "but, since Carter's new revelations, they have suddenly asked us to hold the line. We did that before, but we have families and have bills just like everyone else. We're not asking for much, just about what people who are employed by the Big Three are getting for doing comparable work."

Jerry Ebner, Director of Corporate Personnel at Unistrut, said that the company's position was to abide by the President's guidelines, "because we have a lot of government contracts which we don't want to jeopardize."

"We regret," Ebner continued, "that this incident has occurred and the difficulty seems to be the reluctance of the membership of our local union to accept the guidelines as issued by President Carter on October 24, 1978."

"We have offered the maximum allowable under those guidelines and unless further interpretation is forthcoming, the company has no choice."

"We regret very much the hardships that our personnel will experience because of this strike and we will keep our lines of communications open to the union to make every effort to get our people back to work," Ebner added.

On the picket line

Picket signs went up in front of the Unistrut plant in Wayne after contract negotiations between the management and the Shopmen's Local Union No. 831 AFL-CIO broke down last Tuesday. Union officials said they were to meet with company representatives yesterday in hopes of pounding out a three-year contract. One major stumbling block is economics - the union is seeking more than a 7 percent wage increase. However, company officials point out that if they violate President Carter's voluntary wage and salary guidelines, they could jeopardize government contracts.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE TO FAMILIES WHO LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS OPERATED BY THE ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION OR LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN ANY OTHER CITY BETWEEN MARCH 16, 1971, - SEPTEMBER 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;
2. a dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 6, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Publish every week until April 4.

RESOLUTION 79-002

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus, in consort with a host of Wayne and Oakland communities, have worked with the Wayne County Department of Public Works in an effort to develop the most beneficial construction plan to provide waste water disposal services to the communities in the western and southern areas of Wayne County and those in the southern part of Oakland County; and

WHEREAS: The proposed construction will be financed utilizing many local dollars, the most comprehensive economically feasible approach should be utilized; and

WHEREAS: The United States Environmental Protection Agency has developed a draft environmental impact statement, concluding that Alternate D is the most appropriate alternate to satisfy the objectives of the project; and

WHEREAS: The draft environmental impact statement has serious deficiencies and Alternate D is inferior to Alternate A in several respects:

3. Capacity allocations for Northville, Plymouth and Novi communities appear to be inadequate under Alternate D.

and,

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus along with the eighteen other effected communities participating with the Wayne County Board of Public Works, have studied and substantiated Alternate A-1, based on its findings that said alternate was:

For 20 hours per week work

Canton to pay new deputy treasurer $7,020 per year

Even with the salaried position of deputy treasurer, Canton spends less in managing monetary affairs than four of six neighboring communities surveyed by Associated Newspapers.

Prior to giving Marie Falkiewicz, newly appointed deputy treasurer, a $7,020 annual salary for 20-hours a week part-time work, the treasurer's department spent a total of $28,612 yearly. That included $7,500 for the elected part-time treasurer's annual salary, and $21,112 annually paid to full-time

Finance Director Mike Gorman. The three position's salaries total is $35,632.

In the City of Westland $95,389 is expended yearly to operate the treasury division.

For that near $100,000 annual expenditure, the city is provided with a Finance Director paid $27,983, a Budget Director Controller paid $23,061 annually, and acting Purchasing Agent paid $17,420 (although maximum budgeted is $25,882), and two accountants.

The one accountant is paid $14,697 annually, and the junior accountant on the payroll is paid $11,978 yearly. In Wayne $68,500 is allocated towards the treasury division.

There is a Finance Director who receives $27,000 annually and an Assistant to the Director paid $21,000 annually. The accountant is paid $20,500 yearly.

Usually the larger the population, the more positions and the higher the salaries, according to the survey.

Westland, with the most money spent annually, has an approximate population of 83,000. Wayne, however, with the second greatest dollar amount expended yearly, has a population of 23,000, about 3,000 greater than Plymouth Township which spends only $20,000 annually in the treasury division.

None of the figures compiled included salaries for clerical workers.

In Plymouth Township there's an elected full-time treasurer paid $20,000 yearly. There is no deputy treasurer. The treasurer has full responsibility of monetary matters.

In Van Buren Township the salary for the elected full time Treasurer's position is $17,000 yearly. There is an appointed full-time deputy treasurer paid $16,000 which totals about $33,000 for operating the treasury department. The Township has approximately a 20,000 population.

The City of Romulus expends $47,016 yearly in the treasury division. The elected Treasurer receives $17,300 annually. Deputy Treasurer receives $13,500 and the Finance Director receives $16,216.

The approximate population of Romulus is 28,000.

In the City of Plymouth the elected full time Treasurer receives $24,000 annually with the deputy treasurer receiving $14,634 yearly. There is also an accountant $18,279 yearly. Total spent is $56,913.

Plymouth's approximate population is $12,000.

Canton's population falls roughly in the middle at about 35,000.

Seminar to deal with dying, death

Have you ever felt that you don't know what to say to someone who is dying? Do you find yourself avoiding one of your friends who recently developed cancer?

Few people want to talk about death. However, Magdalene Jaekel not only talks about it, she teaches classes on death and dying.

She will be conducting an evening seminar on "Communicating with the Terminally Ill" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 22 at the First Presbyterian Church of Dearborn, located at 600 N. Brady St.

"Death is like going from one room to the next," she said. "It's not just a void; it is changing your surroundings. We want to help people understand that dying is a part of living. If we can think of death without fear, we can live a fuller life."

"Most people tend to think that there is nothing they can do to help a dying person. But there is a great deal we can do. We can communicate."

Mrs. Jaekel, a native of Germany and a graduate of the University of Berlin, teaches courses for the helping professions, as well as the general public, on how to talk about death and dying.

She has studied under Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, noted author and recognized medical authority on dealing with the terminally ill. Mrs. Jaekel's classes provide an insight into the fears of the terminally ill and show how to be an effective sensitive companion to the dying. This growth and enrichment seminar is being conducted and sponsored by the Family Living Education Program Unit of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, an extension of Michigan State University.

There is a $1 fee, and reservations are requested. They can be made by calling 721-6565 or 563-2950.

The seminar will last until 10 p.m. that day.

WCGH blood bank gets accreditation

Wayne County General Hospital's blood bank, under the direction of Robert W. Schmidt, MD, director of pathology, has been awarded a two-year accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB).

Accreditation followed an intensive on-site inspection by specially-trained representatives of the association and established that the level of medical, technical and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the rigorous standards set by the AABB. By successfully meeting those requirements, Wayne County General Hospital can join more than 2,000 similar facilities across the United States that have earned the accreditation rating and recognition.

Dr. E.J. Conklin, hospital executive director, explained: "The AABB's inspection and accreditation procedures are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a blood bank or transfusion service to be accredited, but like many others, our facility has sought accreditation because it represents a level of professional and medical expertise that meets and exceeds government regulations.

"The primary goal of the program is to assist facilities like ours to achieve excellence, and thus provide higher quality blood, blood products and service to patients."

The standards for blood banks and transfusion services were set by a distinguished panel of experts in the field, composing the AABB Committee on Standards and are enforced by the AABB National Committee on Inspection and Accreditation. Not only do the standards set the level of professional proficiency for blood banks and transfusion services in the United States, but they provide the basis of practice for similar facilities around the world.

USSR gym team visits Cobo Hall

The USSR World Championship Gymnastics Team is coming to Detroit's Cobo arena next Friday at 8 p.m.

The Soviet team features five of the six top gymnasts in the world, who swept all three medals in the women's all around competition and first and third in the men's at the World Championships in Strasbourg, France, last October.

One of the stars of this remarkable group of athletes is 21-year-old Nelli Kim, winner of three gold and one silver medals in the 1976 Olympics in Montreal. In addition, Miss Kim achieved the perfect score of 10 in both the vault and floor exercise. She is the only person ever awarded such unanimous approval by the judges in those two events.

Performing with Nelli Kim is seven-Olympic medal winner Nicolai Andrianco. Nicolai reaffirmed his dominance of men's gymnastics by winning two gold and three silver medals.

Tickets for the Cobo Arena performance on Jan. 19 can be purchased at the Cobo Arena Box Office, or by mail order to: Cobo Arena, 301 Civic Center Drive, Detroit 48226. All tickets are priced at $8.50, $7.50 and $6.50.

For further information, call Cobo Arena at 962-1800 or Olympia Stadium at 895-7000.

Editorial opinions

About the jailing of Van Buren's 7

Today's 'Open Forum' carries a letter from a Van Buren resident who supports the efforts of the township's elected officials to resist the recent court order which could jeopardize the integrity of the communities sewer system.

That writer takes exception to an Editorial Opinion which ran in the Detroit News on Jan. 3, 1979.

Throughout the drama which unfolded at circuit court, ultimately witnessing the jailing of all seven of Van Buren's elected trustees, it became clear that the issue was not so much the question of a sewer connection, but the question of whether elected officials could be brought to their knees by the judiciary.

Generally, the Van Buren officials have been supported by the community, and circuit court attacked.

While we have taken a position in support of the township officials, it should be pointed out that circuit court was also performing its function by insisting that its judgment be carried out.

We stated in an earlier opinion that we felt that a true finding of fact had not been rendered by the court.

Observers of the legal scene at the court have implied that the Township attorney who first represented the community's interests in this case, had not done his job as well as he should have.

They conclude that had Van Buren's objections to the sewer hook-up been presented in more detail, the court would most probably have found in favor of the community.

But because one man did not do his job as well as he might have, the entire community will now be forced to suffer the consequences.

We understand the court's insistence that its judgment be implemented. It is not difficult to imagine the ramifications of a system where the courts could be ignored with impunity.

But in the larger view, the courts of our communities are charged with the responsibility of providing protection for the majority, even if this occasionally means that the minority is short-changed.

There appears to be little real disagreement with the position taken by the township — the Ypsilanti Sewer System is overloaded, and often that overloading is responsible for the dumping of raw sewage into the Belleville Lake.

It is for that reason that we have chosen to support Van Buren's position in this matter. But a better solution might be available.

We would suggest that the court agree to hear new evidence regarding the proposed sewer hook-up for the mobil home park in question.

Should the court decide, following the taking of that new evidence, that the sewer hook-up is detrimental to the community, the problem would be resolved. Should the court find no such problem with the plan, Van Buren's officials should then feel bound by that court decision, and order the required permits.

Too often, with the American system of justice, the outcome of a court case is decided not by the facts but by the abilities of the attorneys involved.

Most of the time, this process works to the advantage of everyone. Sometimes it does not.

We are not in the least bit interested in the particular abilities of the attorneys who handled the Van Buren case. But we are deeply interested in the welfare of the community.

We feel it is time for good judgment to be brought into play at circuit court. The issue of Belleville Lake's health is much too important to everyone, to be won or lost on the basis of legal technicalities.

Editor's Log

The pendulum must be free to swing

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

Thank you Rev. David Eberhard. Thank you Rep. Perry Bullard. And thanks also to the many other elected officials who have devoted so much of their time to the pressing problems of today. Your rush to capture all those disenfranchised drinkers' vote would have been humorous to observe if not for the deep significance of your actions.

Last fall by an overwhelming majority, Michigan's voters supported the question of raising the legal drinking age to 21. That support was not based on any emotional knee-jerk reaction. Rather it was based on the statistics which have proven beyond doubt that the new 18-19-20 year old drinkers were accounting for an increasing and disproportionate share of the accidents on our highways.

In an action becoming more common as time goes on, the question of the increased drinking age was just too sticky a 'wicket' for our elected leaders, and the citizens of Michigan had to force the question on their own initiative.

By far the biggest winner in last fall's rash of petition drives, the drinking age question attracted huge numbers of supporters from around the state.

While our elected leaders were gnashing their teeth, the citizens of Michigan demanded to be heard on the issue, and in November it was passed with overwhelming support.

But as usual when dealing with a potential political issue, some of our elected officials, before the ink was dry on the new law, were plotting a course to use the issue to their own advantage.

Enter Perry Bullard of Ann Arbor.

Perry, the outspoken advocate of ultra-liberal causes, quickly rose to the occasion and introduced legislation in the State House which would reduce the penalty for premature drinking to a mere slap on the wrist.

The Ann Arbor City Council was quick to follow the lead.

In later action, that group of lawmakers, controlled primarily by the thousands of transient students, voted to make the penalty for underage drinking a simple $5 fine.

With the move to circumvent the state's voters, other communities followed suit, and last week, the City of Detroit was discussing the $5 plan.

It has been said that repeating the most assinine statement, often and loud enough, creates credibility for it. And that is the reason for the probable success of this latest move by our elected officials to undo what the voters have mandated.

But in the rush for those votes, our lawmakers have overlooked a fundamental fact of life.

Over the history of our country, and indeed the histories of many other countries, our philosophy on life and living has swung back and forth like the much discussed pendulum.

We have gone through periods of staunch conservatism and periods of extreme liberalism. But before the pendulum always was allowed to move where it would.

It was this constant changing of society's values which has allowed our country, and the world, those brief spurts of progress, followed by periods of reflection and meditation.

Only a fool would argue that society, or the individual, does not need that period of reflection to regroup his forces and plot his direction. Without it, man and society would soon be victim to a complete loss of perspective.

Herein lies the real risk associated with the tampering of policies mandated by the overwhelming majority of our citizens.

The good Rev. Eberhardt, councilman in the City of Detroit, and Perry Bullard of Ann Arbor would lock the formerly free pendulum into its current position until such time as society either burns itself out or destroys itself. And they take this dangerous position not because of principle, but because of politics.

At issue here is not just the drinking age, but a myriad of others from such as "Gay rights", abortion, pornography, and the growing misuse of the television media.

The citizens of this country have clearly expressed their wish to see the pendulum free to swing once again. Self-serving politicians, who feel they are more important than the system, will not turn it lose.

I am afraid that the day has now come when, if principle is discussed, an attorney is needed to verify what it means, when you have to prove to a politician the unprovable, before he will act. And if society had a selector switch, it would be now pointing to self-destruct.

Politicians and others have wondered why citizens have felt forced to the streets to gather signatures on initiative petitions.

They are determined to see the pendulum free once more to swing.

From your lawmakers

By ANDREW MAGUIRE
U.S. Representative
7th District, New Jersey

During the last Session the late Congressman William Steiger and I introduced legislation to reform the Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) program in ways we believed would significantly further the interests of colleges, students, and lending institutions alike.

Our Capital Availability for Higher Education Act of 1978 (H.R. 14147, originally introduced as H.R. 12756) secured both favorable media support and several cosponsors among those concerned with higher education issues.

Toward the end of the Session a companion bill (S. 3428) was introduced by Senate Human Resources Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams, Jr., generating additional support for our proposal.

This Nation's higher education system has been built on the premise of strength through diversity — the belief that qualified students should be free to select and be able to attend schools which best meet their individual needs.

At the same time pressure has mounted for more private financing of higher education to avoid inflationary increases in direct Federal outlays, while the GSL Program — which in concept best meets this goal — has been justly criticized for both inadequate coverage and its high rates of default by student borrowers.

H.R. 14147 would deal with all three of these topics by expanding GSL lending while better servicing lenders and student borrowers, thereby removing several built-in obstacles to increased private financing of higher education. More specifically, it would:

— Increase the annual and cumulative amounts qualified GSL students may borrow from private institutions, to take account of higher educational costs;

— Provide for flexible repayment of loans on an income-contingent basis in certain cases, removing the rigid repayment schedules which have been a prominent cause of past defaults;

— Relieve lenders of serious collection burdens — the chief barrier to increased GSL participation — by permitting them to refer delinquent loans to the IRS for collection through normal tax withholding mechanisms, while preserving the Commissioner of Education's role as enforcer of last resort;

— Create meaningful assurances that loans will not be denied because a student's parents have not had significant dealings with the lender; and — Set up a Congressional advisory committee to report within a year on such issues as further incentives for increased private participation, ways to integrate the general patchwork of Federal assistance programs, and the effect of schools' tuition refund policies on default rates.

I remain convinced that better Federal facilitation of private funding is the preferable solution in a wide range of situations, especially in this period of rising educational costs, Federal austerity, and public reaction against government intrusion.

For these reasons I plan to re-introduce my bill, re-titled the "Fair Access to Higher Education Act," at the start of the upcoming Session. Congressman William Ford, Chairman of the House Postsecondary Education Subcommittee, has agreed to conduct hearings on the bill's merits early next year.

I am actively seeking support for or constructive comments on this bill from members of the higher education community. The likelihood of enactment next year relates directly, of course, to the degree of backing from major individuals and organizations in the higher education field. The bill has already undergone several changes suggested by lending institutions and higher-education administrators. I hope you will contribute to the process and let me know your views.

Detroit News hit

EDITOR:

The following is a letter I sent to the Detroit News in response to an Editorial Opinion which ran in that paper on Jan. 3, 1979.

I would appreciate if you would run the letter in your paper.

DETROIT NEWS EDITOR:

Your editorial on the jailing of the Van Buren Township elected officials — an order issued by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman — has tones of appeasement.

Your Editorial applauds Judge Kaufman for legally and morally exercising His Judicial Duties. However, you allow that The Van Buren Elected Officials "may have (had) good reason for opposing the Mobile Home Park since the Park might pose a threat to the Ecology of Belleville Lake."

You point out that Van Buren should have argued this Ecology Point more vigorously in Court. Township Attorney, Richard James, made vigorous arguments on this case in point and was vehemently refuted by the Judge. Kaufman stated, "The pollution of Belleville Lake is not the issue in this case."

To twenty thousand citizen taxpayers who make our homes surrounding the lake, and to the hundreds and hundreds of outer Wayne County Citizens who enjoy the lake, it is a great issue in this case.

Another great issue in this case, that Judge Kaufman apparently wishes to ignore, is that these Million Dollar Developers did not choose to follow proper Township procedures that lead to the Board of Trustee Level. Instead the developers went directly to the judge.

The judge was right? Does this mean those officials who were elected by the majority of Van Buren citizens to uphold township ordinances are wrong?

Are we to understand the game score is Kaufman — 1 and the elected officials — 0?

The judge and the officials are acting within their right to honor their duty as they see fit. As long as we treat this issue as a right against a wrong somebody is going to pay a big price in losing.

Hopefully, before January 29th, the Courts can resolve this fairly to all concerned. Developers do have a right to develop and make a profit. Communities have a right no to be burdened with continuous over load of sewage.

It is interesting that your next editorial was "The Sewage Mess."

What law up holds judge Kaufman's decision? What is this Law so vital that can only satisfy a few millionaires to become richer while the burden must fall upon a one mill operating township that resides 20,000 citizens to pay the costs both financially and ecologically?

The time is long over due for legislators, judges, attorneys, professionals, politicians and citizens to sit at a round table, look one another in the eye and make some changes before The State of Michigan and the rest of this country goes under all together.

Is it Right that a few can legally over power the majority?

Is it Right that 'The Van Buren Seven' let happen further pollution of Belleville Lake?

Is it Right that any Judge can tell elected officials how to vote?

Is it Right that a few millionaires grow richer with the burden of costs falling on the Tax Payers?

Is it Right that seven elected officials be sent to jail — handcuffed like criminals for being conscientious in their duty to do right by their community while elected officials in Washington, Lansing and all over this country, well known for criminal charges, never saw the inside, let alone the outside of a jail, because some judge ruled the law as he saw fit?

Where do we go from here?

EDITOR:

I had the pleasure of reading the 'Editor's Log' the other day and was pleased to learn that others have had the opportunity of meeting Ernie Davis.

I have known Ernie for thirty years and he is still providing me with a lot of good information which I have been able to use.

I'm sure our world is better for having people like Ernie around.

Reflections

A mother's cross

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

What does a mother think about when the clock downstairs strikes three and the boy who was just going to a neighborhood movie hasn't found his way home?

What does a mother think about as she strains for the sound of screeching tires, the cacophony of sound as a car shudders to a stop, the slamming of the front door, the thud of coke bottle against coke bottle in the refrigerator?

"New rules have to be made," she's likely to mutter to herself as she pushes the pillow back and forth across the bed, knowing all the time that thousands of rules can be made, and he will abide by none, for after all, he's almost nineteen.

"One thin dime in the telephone slot will take away the worry," she will tell him the next morning. And he will look down from 6'2", dismay written all over his almost grown up face, and he will say, "Sometimes it's inconvenient to telephone, have you ever thought of that?"

And she will suddenly remember how it was when she was almost nineteen and how it was that telephoning mother was the most inconceivable thing of which she could think.

But even so, the remembering doesn't really help as the clock bongs away every half hour, and the door doesn't open, and the stairs don't grunt heavily as he erupts home.

What else does a mother think, all alone in her bed, except for the father of her son, snoring away by her side?

She's untying apron strings, or trying to. She keeps telling herself he is a good boy, and that he has never given any cause for worry, that he is old enough to do his own thing, old enough to crawl out of mothers' arms, old enough to spill his guts on some bloody battlefield; so surely, oh surely, he's old enough to come home on time and keep her from losing her mind.

Another drink of water; another peek from the front window; another look at the clock, and she crawls back into bed, staring at the ceiling.

And her bedfellow snores on. Pushing back the thoughts of an accident; pushing away the remembrance of newspaper accounts, the memory of the boy beaten senseless on his way home; the memory of the boy stabbed by a group; he clenches her fists at her side and whispers, "But this is HOMETOWN, nothing like that would happen here."

But she knows it could, for this is the age of violence.

What else does a mother think as the night drags on? She prays a lot, but somehow she has a feeling God must be busy somewhere else, for he doesn't seem to be listening. She spends a great deal of time longing for her young ones to be little ones again, tucked safely in their beds by 8 o'clock.

But most of all she thinks how nice it would be to be a father.

Health Beat

The trauma of abortion

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

She's age 17 as reckoned by the calendar; certain events during the past year may have raised that age somewhat. Her name is not important to the story, and we've promised not to reveal her identity.

This much we can write: she's one of several children in a single-parent family, and she lives in a Western Wayne County suburban community.

A little better than a year ago, she discovered she was pregnant; single, a high school sophomore with a full life ahead of her, and now carrying a child.

"I was terrified to tell my mother. I thought she'd throw me out of the house. I wasn't sure which way to turn. Telling mom was the hardest thing I've ever had to do."

Her mother, thankfully, was supportive. But it was clear that an important decision had to be made.

"I knew that there were two options open to me. I could carry the baby full term and deliver. Then I could keep the child or put it up for adoption. The second option, of course, was to seek an abortion."

"The final decision was mine, and mine alone. I talked with mom and with my sister. I weighed the pros and cons of either option. Finally, I opted for termination of the pregnancy."

Health care delivery professionals know that statistically, approximately 1 in 10 of school-age girls will experience a pregnancy before they leave high school.

The figure given for calendar year 1977 is 200,000 girls between age 12 and 18 conceived a child.

It would be easy, and I think painfully simplistic, to condemn this young girl. But no amount of tongue-clucking, finger-pointing, or moralizing would change the essential fact of pregnancy.

"The decision I made was made reluctantly. I have respect for human life, and some day I hope to get married and have children. But I want those children when I'm emotionally able to handle them."

"How could I go to school and have a baby at home? Who'd want to date me or even get too close as a friend? I knew that I'd never be able to care for the child properly, and it wouldn't be fair to that child to have a 16-year-old as its mother."

She said that the night prior to the procedure was perhaps the loneliest she's ever experienced in her life. "I checked into a clinic and went through the usual pre-operative procedures. Then, mom had to leave. I knew she wouldn't be able to stay all night, but when she finally did leave I was almost totally enveloped in a shroud of depression. Even at that time I continued to question myself to be sure I'd made the appropriate decision."

The procedure was accomplished, and she returned home. "I didn't go out of the house for five months except when it was absolutely necessary. I felt ashamed, and I felt so stupid because I'd allowed myself to get into such a traumatic situation. Even today, a long time after, I still occasionally get pangs of conscience."

What would she advise other young women to do? "Well, and this should be obvious, don't fall for any line used by someone which might have you end up in same situation in which I found myself."

"I never even told the father of my baby that I was pregnant. I was afraid. Then I found out that he would have dumped me anyway."

"As to aborting the fetus, well, that's a decision each person must make for herself. But don't ever think it's an easy decision, because I know it's not."

"When I was 13 or 14, I used to say that I'd never get myself in such a horrid state. I said I'd never be that dumb. Maybe people should not say 'never', because you just don't know what's coming a few years down the road."

She's now a high school senior, and she has a boyfriend who knows of the past but is prepared to look at the future and treat her like the lady I happen to know that she is.

No one ever said that life was fair or without major complications. This young lady has already been through a personal hell and perhaps is a better person for it.

I wonder if those of us who are considered adults, at least by the calendar, could have survived the situation as well as my young friend?

Church's fight to combat racism, hit as racist

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

When the World Council of Church's (WCC) notorious $2 million "Program to Combat Racism" was first formulated in England eight years ago, an American Methodist delegate was in charge of the conference: George McGovern of South Dakota (and Washington, D.C.).

But even the ultra-liberal Democratic, Presidential nominee has repudiated one of this program's monetary grants. For the WCC has contributed money to the American Indian Movement (AIM) which Sen. McGovern has denounced for such actions as using automatic rifles (Soviet made) to terrorize South Dakotans and trash their property.

This and a growing number of expressions of concern have apparently had no impression upon the Rev. Phillip Potter, a far left black militant who is the WCC's ranking executive. For Potter and a committee of three (including Toronto's Anglican Archbishop Edward Scott) voted to give $85,000 to Robert Mugabe's "Patriotic Front." This was hardly one month after Mugabe's black nationalist terrorists added to their long roll of murdered missionaries by massacring eight white missionaries—and five of their children, at the Elim Pentecostal Mission in Rhodesia.

This incredible funding was excused by WCC President Cynthia Wedel of Alexandria, Va. who called it "a tiny side program."

The world-wide reaction was anything but tiny:

In London, Gen. Arnold Brown, head of the Salvation Army, ordered a suspension of all Salvation Army participation and financial support of the WCC, pending an investigation and Potter's answer to a letter of inquiry. In New York, the Salvation Army's ranking officer, Commissioner Paul Kaiser, said: "We have 90 schools and 40,000 students in Rhodesia. But these terrorists, who are Marxists, killed 20 of our missionaries near Bulawayo."

In Indiana, Methodist Bishop Ralph T. Alton, a member of the WCC's 125-member Central Committee, wrote Potter charging that the $85,000 grant violated WCC policy against making such grants "where church leadership was on both sides"—as in Cyprus. (The Methodist Church gives more money to the WCC than any other U.S. denomination: $645,000 from 1973 to 1975.) Also in Indiana, WCC delegate John Brademas, (D-Ind.) the House Majority Whip, had "no comment" to defend the WCC.

In New York, Lois Miller, an executive of the strongly liberal Methodist World Ministries division, termed the $85,000 grant "a mistake" and explained: "We've got people asking us to withdraw from the WCC."

Also in New York, the United Church of Christ has called for a "review" of this grant, which was deemed "questionable as to serving democratic goals."

In London, the similarly liberal British Council of Churches relief agency, Christian Aid, publicly disassociated itself from this $85,000 grant.

In West Germany, the Protestant Working Group of the Christian Democratic Party charged that this $85,000 grant "shows in a frightening way the incredible, irresponsible and pharisaic behavior of the WCC towards accusations of violations of human rights in southern Africa."

In London, 40 members of Christian groups from as far as New Zealand met to form the International Christian Network and elected as chairman the Professor of Christian Ecumenics at Germany's famed Tubingen University.

Lutheran Peter Beyerhaus promptly called upon the WCC's Phillip Potter, either to end the "program to Combat Racism"—or to resign.

"Failing such action," resolved the Network "we call upon member churches of the WCC to withdraw from that body."

Such call could be devastating to Potter if U.S. Methodists, Presbyterians, Lutherans, and Episcopalians begin objecting to even "a tiny part" of their offerings being used to subsidize terrorists who specialize in massacres of missionaries.

In Washington, a spokesman for the U.S. Department of State reiterated the Carter Administration's insistence that Rhodesian Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa and United Church of Christ minister Ndabaningi Sithole meet with terrorist leader Robert Mugabe—who has announced that when he comes to power he will execute these two clergy.

Brawl stops Inkster, Highland Park

Coach Thompson suspends 8 players

BY TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

A fight between an Inkster cage fan and a Highland Park player led to the cancellation of the scheduled Suburban Athletic Conference game Friday night.

With seconds to go before the half, two persons began swinging at one another near the Highland Park bench and the officials attempted to stop the fight.

The game was stopped and because of the tense situation, school officials decided to empty the gym.

"At this point we know that one of the fans argued with a Highland Park player who was seated on the bench," said Inkster Coach George Thompson Jr. "We don't know what precipitated the fight, but the officials decided that in the best interests of everyone, the gym should be emptied."

Inkster was leading 21-20 at the time of the interruption and had led by as much as nine points throughout most of the first half. School officials didn't know if the game would be played over in the near future.

Thompson, whose team is 1-0 in the SAC, said that he had suspended eight of his players, three of whom were starters. The suspensions stem from a separate incident and the Viking coach refused to comment why he took the action.

"All I can say is that it is a fact that we have suspended the eight players," Thompson added, "and, despite the suspensions, I feel we will definitely be competitive and we still have a fine ball club."

The suspensions took effect on Wednesday, Jan. 10 and involved Wyman Mansel, DaShawn Wells, and Steve Tomlinson - all starters - along with John Potter, Ernest Carter, Marcus Beeman, Thaddous Foreman, and Darryl Lewis.

Chargers lose ground

Canton is alone in 1st place

If there was a time that Churchill should have manifested itself with a complete team effort, it was last week against Northville.

Coach Fred Price's Chargers hit a cold streak in the third quarter and subsequently bowed to the Mustangs 56-46 and that loss set the Livonians back to second place in the Western Six Conference title race.

And with pre-season title favorite, Plymouth Canton, next on the Churchill schedule, things aren't looking too good.

"Canton is a team of many facets," commented Price. "They can shoot from the outside and hurt you with their height and strength from the inside. Their floor leader, Mandle, (Rusty) is exceptionally good at his job, so we're going to have our hands full."

Canton also will have the home court advantage in the first meeting of these two area teams.

Churchill's record dipped to 2-1 as Northville knocked out their rivals with a 14-4 clout in the third period. Up to then it was anyone's ballgame as the Chargers trailed by a mere three, 16-13, for the first period and closed to within one point thanks to Ralph Jarnot's efforts in the second period. But a last second layup gave the Mustangs a 29-25 edge for two periods.

Then the proverbial roof collapsed on the Chargers who couldn't buy a basket in the third period and trailed by 13 heading into the last period.

Churchill's Dave Krick helped make the game closer than the score indicated when he came off the bench and pumped in all nine of his points.

Jarnot continued his exceptional play as he grabbed 16 rebounds and contributed 15 points and Brian Kersten, in his first starting role, chipped in with 12.

"I think their zone hurt us more than we would like to believe," Price said. "We were forced to take some shots hoping to get the rebounds, but they boxed us out pretty well."

All charged up

Churchill's sturdy Ralph Jarnot (50) and teammate Brian Kersten (30) control the play under the boards, boxing out an unidentified Northville cager and Mustangs' fallen Jeff Norton (34) in Friday's Western Six Conference duel. The Mustangs defused the Charged up Livonians who wasted a superb 15-point Jarnot effort in sustaining their initial conference setback, 56-46.

Fan ruins game for everyone

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The fan who took a slug at the Highland Park player owes Inkster High and the Vikings' staff an apology.

And he also should be forced to pay back every cent that the crowd paid to get into Inkster High's gym Friday night.

Of course the idiot won't dig into his pockets and, pardon the pun, he doesn't have the sense. How else can one explain his actions?

There is no excuse for a fan - and I use that word because my editor won't let me use the kind of words to describe the nincompoop - to stir up so much animosity that he endangers the lives and property of anyone.

GEORGE THOMPSON JR.

"And, let me stress and reiterate, the incident didn't involve the players of the teams - the laceration was between a fan who apparently had some words with a Highland Park player on the bench," said Thompson. "At present, I don't know if anyone was seriously injured, but the school and athletic officials at the time rightfully decided to stop the game."

For the record, Inkster was ahead at the time of the brawl and had led throughout most of the first two periods by as much as nine points. Highland Park came within one point when the fight erupted with less than a minute to go before intermission.

"We have a cohesive league," said Thompson, "and we're going to keep it that way."

Thompson didn't know when or if the game between the two schools would be made up. He also said he didn't know if the game would be resumed at the point when the fight broke out or played anew.

He also stressed that the eight players he had suspended from his team "had nothing to do with Friday night's incident."

"I suspended the eight, three of whom were starters, due to an unrelated incident," Thompson said, "and I don't feel I should elaborate. The kids have been punished enough and dragging this through the local newspapers isn't going to help."

"I do feel that, despite the suspensions, we're going to have a

1st 300-game

Though no one knows how he felt afterward, Garden City's Bobby J. Hawkins strolled out of the Fiesta Lanes last week securing two auspicious records.

Hawkins became the first bowler in Fiesta Lanes' history to card a perfect 300-game.

"He was bowling on 27 and 28," said an employee of the lanes, "and as the news got around that Bobby was working on a 300 game, the crowds started to gather. When he wound up with the perfect score, they all cheered and later congratulated him.

"I don't think he realized that he was the first bowler to ever post a 300 game at these lanes."

A member of the Tuesday Junior House League, Hawkins finished his memorable evening with a 618 series. He has been bowling for 10 years.

Last second field goal burns New Boston Huron

New Boston Huron cage Coach Gene Smith knew that Airport's Gary Baker was going to take the last shot, but there apparently wasn't anything he or his Chiefs could do about it.

Baker, who has the phenomenal ability to hit those last ones from midcourt, sank a 24-foot jumper with two seconds remaining to give his team a narrow 53-51 Huron Conference basketball victory over New Boston.

"A week ago Gary did the same thing against Flat Rock and on four separate occasions he has hit long jump shots to save his team," said Smith whose team fell two games off undefeated Tecumseh's title pace.

"You know I can't ask for more from my players - they're working hard, diving for loose balls and doing everything - it's just that, and I hate to say it, you need a bit of luck to win."

Huron missed a "golden opportunity" to keep pace with the leaders in the league. The Chiefs blew a 29-19 halftime lead after Airport rallied to 15-14 and 19-9 leads in the second half.

In the closing minutes, Huron was given three one-and-one chances and missed the front end of each opportunity.

Baker wound up with 15 points, along with the Glenn looks like old self — Rockets breeze past East

Though the scars of losing a Holiday Tournament title to Cherry Hill remained covered, Westland John Glenn returned to the hardwood Friday night and riddled Garden City East 82-61.

The victory, the third in the Northwest Suburban for the defending champ, left the Rockets all alone atop of the standings. Redford Thurston's upset of North Farmington left the Westlanders as the only undefeated team in the league.

"I felt we played a pretty consistent game," said Glenn's Gordie Davis whose team has won seven of their nine starts this season. "The kids took control early which gave us an opportunity to use all of our players."

With Ralph McKenzie tossing in eight and senior guard Daran Armstrong scoring nine, the Rockets leaped to a 20-7 first period and, though East showed signs of recovery during the next eight minutes, the Panthers never mounted a threat after the half.

Westland had a 41-30 halftime lead, increased it to 13 by outscoring their rivals 16-14 in the third period and stashed the win away after outscoring their visitors 25-17 in the finale.

McKenzie had another superb night as he hit on 12 field goals and one of two free throws for 25 points, a feat duplicated by East's Tim Taylor. Armstrong came up with 17 and had a handful of assists, while Brad Jennings, had the tough assignment to defense East's prolific scorer, Mike Kossick. Kossick got eight points, while Brad contributed 12 points and "played his best game of the year," according to the Glenn coach.

Both teams were busy at the foul line as the Westlanders cashed in on 24 of 31 shots as compared to East's 13 of 26. Glenn had the edge in field goals as well, 29-24.

Glenn will travel to Thurston Friday night and Davis warns, "that they can be tough."

"Anyone who can beat North Farmington by 20 points has to be tough and on their floor Thurston can be deadly," Davis added.

Sparks spank Steelers

The National Wheelchair Basketball Association top ranked team, the "Detroit Sparks" of Westland, ran their record to 15-0 by taking two games from Pittsburgh.

On Saturday evening, the "Sparks" crushed the "Steel Wheelers" 107-19. The local contingent raced to a 48-3 halftime lead and were never headed.

The Westlanders placed six men in double figures, paced by Ted Chatman's 16 points, Denver Bronun and Wyman Davis scored 14 points each and Joe Sutika and Gary Odorowski added 12 points a piece.

However, the evening was highlighted by the performance of team newcomer 6'8" Darrell Waller who came off the bench to score 14 points.

In the Sunday afternoon rematch, the "Sparks" again whipped Pittsburgh by the score of 106-17. The ever improving "Sparks" placed five men in double figures. Leading the way again was Ted Chatman with 22 points followed by Wyman Davis and Maurice Phillips with 20 and 18 points respectively while Leon Sturtz and Gary Odorowski each added 12 points.

Upsets rock Tri-River League as Spartans, Melvindale bow

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

What is it about the Taylor Kennedy "dungeon" that causes so many Tri-River title hopefuls to stumble?

"The dungeon" is the nick-name given to the gym at Kennedy High School because of its unusual appearance to watch a basketball game.

The dungeon has given Garden City West's most powerful teams — even those with All-Staters Rick Drewicz and Dave Niles — all kinds of problems. And Cherry Hill's best cage squads have had more than their share of losses in the den of Van Kostegian, the bald Eagles' veteran coach.

It was the same story Friday night as Dick McNally's Spartans had their worst shooting night of the year in losing a 49-47 league battle and dropped to second place in the Tri-River Conference with a 3-2 mark.

With its victory, Kennedy joined Melvindale and Garden City West on top of the standings with 4-1 records.

Not this time

Northville's Greg Suckow (50) had a good thing going for him, but his layup was deflected by Churchill's Brian Kersten in Friday night's league encounter which was of a losing kind for the Livonians. The defeat set Coach Fred Price's

Mt. Clemens wins Salem Invitational

With three of their key wrestlers sidelined, Westland John Glenn handed over the Plymouth Salem Invitational Wrestling crown to Mt. Clemens last Saturday.

Mt. Clemens won the tournament title with 162½ points, nine points better than the defending champs and a mere four points up on runners-up, Ypsilanti. Ypsi garnered 158½ points while Glenn picked up 153.

"Considering the circumstances, I felt we did well," said Glenn coach Bob Lusk. "We had two regulars out of the lineup because of weight problems and we didn't even have an entry in the 126 pound class."

"And I feel that if we had any of those weights filled, we could have maybe won the meet."

Missing from the Glenn lineup were veterans Paul Demers (105), and Billy Meyers (155).

Glenn came close to winning a pair of gold medals, but when 98-pounder Pete Bologna lost to Salem's Ken Schultz, 6-0, in the finals and 155-pounder Ken Hodges was decided 6-2 by North Farmington's Cotter the Rockets were forced to settle for silver medals.

Glenn also earned third place with the performances of Duane Gibbs who defeated Canton's Tom Having trouble paying your electric bill?

All of us, of course, must pay for the goods and services we use. From time to time, many of us may have difficulties making those payments — due to illness, loss of employment, an accident or a disability.

If this happens to you, let Detroit Edison know. Detroit Edison has programs to help you if you're having problems with electric bills and to help you avoid overdue bills in the future. The programs are designed to assure uninterrupted electric service.

You can help Detroit Edison help you by getting in touch as soon as possible — by mail, by telephone or by stopping in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office.

Here are Detroit Edison Programs to help when your bill is overdue:

- Bill Payment Counseling
Company Customer Representatives will offer advice and assistance and suggest ways to obtain aid in paying Edison bills through public assistance programs such as social service or welfare agencies, if needed. So call or stop in at any Customer Office and talk things over.
- Payment Plans
If an extra-large overdue bill seems impossible to pay, don't despair. Payment plans can be tailored to fit your situation and clear things up.
- Double Notice Protection Plan
When you sign up for this plan, if your overdue bill could result in a service shutoff then a friend, relative or community agency is notified so they can remind you that your bill must be paid, or pay it for you. This plan is especially helpful for the elderly, the sick, the shut-in or persons who spend extended periods of time away from home.

Senior Citizen Rate

If you are 65 years or older and the head of a household, this new rate can help lower your electric bills if you use less than 548 kilowatt-hours a month — 848 kilowatt-hours or less if you have controlled electric water heating combined on your regular meter. If you want more information, call or stop in at any Customer Office so that a Customer Representative can review this new program with you.

Wise Use of Electricity

Detroit Edison has booklets on how to use your electric lights and appliances wisely and other ways to save energy around the home.

Stop in at any Customer Office and pick up what you need to get the most out of your energy dollar.

Detroit Edison does everything possible to get in touch with you to see if you need help when your electric bill is overdue. But you can help by getting in touch with Detroit Edison.

Detroit Edison wants to do everything in its power to keep the power in your hands.

So please help us help you.

Ex-Wayne cager among top scorers

Nibert joins elite '1,000 club' at Albion

John Nibert, former Wayne Memorial cage star and All-Area alumni, earned a rare honor last weekend, becoming the first Albion basketball player to score 1,000 or more career points in a three-year span at Albion College.

A 6-5 senior pivotman, Nibert racked up the coveted 1,000 points in a winning performance against Kalamazoo, a team Albion humbled 76-59 last Wednesday.

Nibert scored 31 points in that victory and his memorable 1,000 point came on a jumper from the key. He also pumped in 30 points against Hope last week in a 112-78 win.

Nibert's 1,037 career points places him in ninth place on the all-time Albion scoring chart, however, those he is looking up at accomplished their feats during a four-year span. "It is noteworthy to point out that John's accomplishment was during a three-year span," said Jack Johnson, of the Albion Sports Information Bureau. "He is the first to hit 1,000 points in three years of varsity competition."

Albion's all-time scorer is Mike Wilson who has a total of 1,547 points during a four-year career (1966-70).

Nibert is presently averaging 31 points per game in the league and is carrying a 24.0 over-all ppg. average. John is also the team's leading rebounder, grabbing 10 per game.

Albion is presently sporting a 2-0 Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association record and has an 8-2 won-lost over-all record.

Don't count Franklin cagers out

Patriots plaster Thurston, 67-49

Starting anew, Coach Jim McIntyre's Patriots blasted Thurston, 67-49, to return to the Northwest Suburban Conference title chase. The victory provided the Livonians with a 2-1 conference record and left Thurston, a team that stopped North Farmington, a serious title contender, with a 1-2 mark.

"I've believed in these kids all along," McIntyre said, "and they're looking good, playing better defense with each game."

Franklin will head for North Farmington Friday night to see if its new year strength will hold up against the problem-plagued Farmington quintet.

"North has a little more size than we do, but we're running more than they are right now."

Thurston will attest to that - the Redford cagers fell behind 18-8 as Franklin turned on its jet fuel and rocketed to a 40-18 halftime margin.

With center Chris Baker, Jim Wilson and Jeff Reich giving Franklin superiority of the boards, the contest was no contest the rest of the way.

Thurston conceded the game halftime through the third period as the Eagles freely substituted to give their bench ample experience.

Baker had 18 points and a handful of rebounds, while Wilson scored 15 points and DeYonker, who relaxed the entire second half, added 10. Reich rounded out the balanced scoring with 11.

Mike Fitzsimmons paced Thurston with 17 points.

Earlier, Franklin rallied to within two of catching arch city rival, Stevenson in the 1979 phase of the season. McIntyre's proteges had to settle for a 69-67 loss despite Baker's 24 points.

Stevenson's Dave Hall had 20 for the Spartans who had four players in double figures.

Romulus takes on Belleville

Eagles get some good news

Though the lights in the Romulus high gym will be dimmed this Friday, Coach Rod Hanna and his Eagles won't be wasting any time getting ready for neighboring Belleville.

Romulus has a rare Friday night off and will resume cage action on Tuesday at Belleville, a team that Hanna has a lot of respect for.

"They (Belleville) have three solid guards and a sophomore center (6-6 Ed Watson) who has a lot of potential," said Hanna. "We were able to size them up during the Holiday Tournament at Wayne, and I feel we're going to have our hands full."

Hanna and his cagers received some good news in the form of a doctor's report which indicated that junior forward, 6-2 Dave Casey, will be available for action next week. Casey, who had been scoring at a 14 ppg. clip before being sidelined with an illness, started in the first four games of the season.

Meanwhile, Romulus' record dipped to 7-3 on the year after losing a close one to Ann Arbor Pioneer, 71-66, last Tuesday. Working back from small deficits, the Eagles went ahead 61-60 with 3 1/2 minutes to go, then Pioneer's 6-4 slick-passing guard Dave Elliott took over and pumped in seven of his 19 points to assure the hosts of the victory.

Pioneer established a slim 18-15 lead after the first eight minutes, but Romulus, behind Vince Bean's nine points, took command at the half 34-32.

Pioneer outscored the Eagles 17-16 in the third period to set the stage for a thrilling finish.

"We actually lost this game at the free throw line," explained Hanna. "Pioneer was in bonus situation in the third period and eventually made 11 of 15 free throws as compared to our 4 of 7 effort. We had one more (31-30) field goal than they did."

Bean, a 6-2 junior forward contributed 17 points and 10 rebounds, sharing individual scoring honors with Darryl Lewis. John Kersey, a guard, also was in double figures for the Eagles. He had 12.

Three Pioneer players accounted for the bulk of their team's scoring. Tony Johnson's 20 topped the field, while Elliott settled for 19 and Keith Bostic scored 15.

Over 30 teams forget about playing defense

Jack Bockstanz' two goals paced the Huron Valley attack.

Barry Anderson, Dan Demers and Dennis Fassett each scored for the losers.

Brock's will have to put up in the next couple of games as they are scheduled to meet Futurama and Jack's Sporting Goods.

Tastee Freez, coming off of an impressive Christmas Holiday Tournament triumph, spotted Jack's six goals then unsuccessfully attempted to get them back and dropped an 8-5 encounter. Nick Palise sparked the winners with three goals and two assists, while Jerry Grube and John Kunz added a pair of goals and Chuck Jennett scored the final goal.

Ralph Tackl picked up two goals for the losers, with teammates Corky Hays, Lee Callaway and Mo Paquette each scoring one.

In the final game, Ron Johnson's four goals paved the way for Johnson Carbonic's 7-2 victory over 4-Seasons Sporting Goods. After the losers scored the first goal, Johnson's replied with the next five tallies to sew it up. John Castellanos notched a pair for the winners and Al Robertson got the final one.

John Clearwood and Ron Wojewski scored for the losers.

It's back on the ice for the Over 30 mob on Sunday which begins the third round of play. Over in Westlands, Brocks and Futurama square off at 8:30 p.m., while Johnson's plays Tastee Freez at 10 p.m.

At the Wayne Arena, Extra Point and Huron Valley start the action at 9 p.m., then Jack's and Four Seasons will meet in the evening's curtain-drawer at 10:30 p.m.

Spartans fall to Southgate

Cherry Hill swimming title is placed in jeopardy

Thin in numbers and lacking adequate experienced swimmers, four-time defending Tri-River Conference swim champ, Cherry Hill launched its title defense on the shortend of an 89-81 league decision with Southgate.

It was the first time in recent years that Southgate had beaten the perennial champs in a dual meet and the Spartan loss wrecked first year coach Wayne Beerbower's debut in the league.

"We didn't win either relay and that cost us the meet," said Beerbower who replaced Jerry Pawloski at the stern of the Spartan ship this year and is also a former Pawloski protege. "I can't fill our lineup with experienced swimmers, in fact, we only have 10 swimmers out this season - we're going to take our lumps."

Cherry Hill did have a couple of sparkling performers in Curt McNamara and Tracy Hissong. Both were double winners. McNamara covered the 200-yard individual medley in the winning time of 2:14.6, then swam a 58.9 to win the 100-yard butterfly.

Hissong's 52.4 was the best time for the 100-yard freestyle and he turned in a 1:09.9 to win the 100-yard breaststroke.

Glenn no match for Wayne swimmers

Defending champ Wayne Memorial tuned up for its Great Lakes 8 Conference title defense last Thursday with a lopsided 112-60 victory over natural rival, Westland John Glenn.

Wayneswept 10 out of a possible 11 first places, losing a shutout when Glenn's Joel Garbus reached the finish line ahead of Wayne's Tim Butler in the 100-yard breaststroke event.

Tom Brown and John Lewandowski were double event-winners for Coach Jim McPartlin's Zebras who begin league action on Thursday at Taylor Truman (4 p.m.).

McPartlin sees the league championship race shaping up as a three-team affair. Wayne will have to convince two serious contenders Taylor Center and Monroe the Zebras have the manpower to retain the title.

"It should be an interesting year," said McPartlin, "and I figure if we are to repeat we're going to have to beat Taylor Center and Monroe for the championship."

2 volleyball teams remain undefeated

With the season eight weeks old, two teams remain undefeated in the Wayne Ladies' Volleyball League.

La Parisien has strung together eight consecutive victories to hold down the top rung in Flight A, while Jake's Lounge has duplicated the same feat in Flight C.

Other Flight leaders include Westland Sports Shop whose 5-3 record earned for it the "D" lead and Guess Who? That's the name of the team) is leading Flight B with an impressive 6-2 won-lost record.

In competition a week ago, La Parisien throttled Ups and Downs in three straight sets. Meanwhile, Jake's took good care of Darned If I Know?

Bee Jays, shaping up for a showdown with the "A" leaders, disposed of Shayam without any problem as Teresa Sharpe and Sally Leway came up with superlative efforts.

Burghoff's Bar, behind Debbie Halsey and Denise Eckhart's super performances, crushed The Sweethearts in three sets. Could it be that Burghoff's is the "Cinderella Team" of the flight?

Jack's Sports Center, under the direction of Caye Martel, dropped a close encounter to Guess Who?. The "Whos" lead Flight B with a 6-2 record.

In other action, Tec Air Flight School defeated Paul Bosco & Sons in a five-setter as Captain Virginia Sexton led the ever-improving winners.

Barracudas end year

With a perfect 3-0 record for the first half of the season, the Westland Barracudas celebrated their untarnished swimming performance with a Pizza Party.

Coach Jim Lawrence's tankers entered 1979 with victories over South Livonia Swim Club (313-154), Wayne-Westland 'Y' (344-61) and Riverview Swim Club (253-151).

Holiday Hockey champs

Displaying its finest form of the current season, Tastee Freez managed to emerge atop of a five-team Holiday Hockey Tournament, edging Huron Valley 3-2 for the championship. Members of the team include: Keith Ruby (front row, from left), Paul Zatyko, John Ruggiero,

Tastee Freez nips Huron for holiday hockey title

Putting on one of its finest shows on defense as well as offense, Tastee Freez stunned Huron Valley Total 3-2 to capture the Over 30 Hockey Holiday Tournament Championship.

Lee Callaway fired a first period goal to give the champs the lead and that goal stood up until the third period when Paul Zatyko put Tastee Freez up by two then, with five minutes left Ray Gabbert scored for the losers.

Huron Valley pulled its goalie with two minutes left in the showdown but the strategy backfired with Norm Beasley slid the puck into the open net, giving the champs a comfortable 3-1 edge.

Huron scored on Gabbert's second goal of the evening with 43 seconds remaining.

John Ruggiero's goaltending was a crucial factor in Tastee Freez' triumph as he allowed only four goals in three games.

Tastee Freez opened the tournament with a 1-all tie with Garden City's entry, Four Seasons Sports Shop. Garden City struck early in this one as Gary Mullendore gave the visitors the lead after the game was only one minute old.

Beasley tied it up eight minutes later, then both teams turned to their defenses and the scoreboard didn't change the rest of the night. The champs made it to the finals with a convincing 3-1 victory over Johnson Carbonic. Dennis McCormick provided Johnson's with a 1-0 first period margin, but Ruggiero shut out his rivals the rest of the way.

Beasley, Callaway and Dan Droz provided the winning edge for Tastee Freez.

Huron Valley dumped Johnson's 4-2 as Murray Peterson, Ray Gabbert, John Colligan and Jack Bockstanz each scored for he winners.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN D. SIETZ

Newly wed John Sietzs cruise Bahamas area, visit Florida

A cruise to the Bahamas, a visit to the Florida Keys and Disney World were all on the honeymoon agenda of the newly wed John Daniel Sietz who, since their return, are making their home in Whitmore Lake.

Maria Margarita Dinser, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Dinser of the Strawberry Lake area, became Mrs. Sietz in a holiday season wedding at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Whitmore Lake.

The Rev. Patrick Jackson presided at the six thirty nuptial mass on Dec. 30 before some 150 assembled relatives and friends. Scriptural readings were offered by Charles Rashid, home from Central Michigan University, and James Schwalm Jr. of Livonia, cousin of the bridegroom.

Music for the ceremony was provided by members of the bridegroom's family who accompanied themselves on guitars as they sang. The quartet included Larry Sietz of Ypsilanti; Bob and Bernadette Garbe of Pinckney and Rita Sietz, home from Western Michigan University.

John and Maria exchanged wedding bands and marriage vows after each had been escorted up the aisle by their respective parents.

For her wedding day Maria chose to wear a traditional white gown designed with a bouffant skirt, long sleeves and sweetheart neckline enhanced with hand-clipped lace appliques.

Her veil of silk illusion was banded in matching lace and fell from a little lace cap. Completing her bridal finery was a cascade bouquet of roses, carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Attendants in Christmas red gowns with bouquet of pink roses and white carnations and baby's breath were the maid of honor, Ann Shoop of Dexter; Nancy Claus of East Lansing and Deborah Van Amburg of Whitmore Lake, cousin of the bride.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sietz of 19380 Sumpter Rd., Belleville, chose his friend, Keith Hafner of Jackson, to serve as best man. Others on the esquire side were the bridegroom's two brothers, Bill Sietz, who came from Hialeah Gardens, Fla. for the occasion, and Larry Sietz of Ypsilanti.

Members of the younger set in the bridal coterie were Kelly Kirkpatrick of Whitmore Lake and Mark Steinhauer of Wayne, flower girl and ringbearer, respectively.

Guests gathered in St. Patrick's Church Parish center for the dinner-dance reception which followed. The wedding cake was made and served by the bridegroom's uncle, aunt and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Schwalm and family of Livonia.

The bridegroom is in his final year of civil engineering studies at the University of Michigan. The new Mrs. Sietz works as a registered nurse at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Residents are 'home' after warmer climes

By Mrs. Joseph Spring

Mrs. Elizabeth Leschinsky of East Columbia Avenue returned home on Friday, Jan. 5, after having spent the past six weeks with her family in Arizona and California. She spent some time at Thanksgiving with her son, Tom and wife and their family at Tucson, and then journeyed on to Lancaster, Calif., to be with her son, Eugene, wife and family for Christmas.

In Lancaster she had the time to become acquainted with her 18-months-old, great-granddaughter, Arayan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Leschinsky.

On New Year's Day she was one of the many who viewed the parade at Pasadena. She reports that the weather was on the cool side and foggy.

Mrs. Betty Parkinson of West Huron River Drive had the misfortune to fall last Thursday, Jan. 4, in Ann Arbor and sustain a severely fractured ankle. After having been in the University of Michigan Medical Center for several days, she is now at the home of her sister, Velma Kulzer of Liberty Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Clark of Lake Villa Apartments entertained at dinner at their home on Friday evening, Jan. 5, in celebration of their daughter Sharon's birthday. Present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Lou Keefe of Manchester, Steve Surick of Dearborn, Mrs. Lana Hyde of Westland, and Betty Fulton of North Lauderdale, Fla.

Ken Quinley from Billings, Mont., has returned home after having spent the holidays with his parents, the Edgar Quinleys of Sumpter Road. Walter Gambrell of Corbin, Ky. father of Mrs. Quinley, was also a guest at their home over the holidays.

Mrs. Loralee Mericle Statham of Austin, Texas arrived on Tuesday, Jan. 9, to spend a week with her parents, the Kenneth Mericles of Denton Road. In the afternoon they motored to Toledo, Ohio for a post-Christmas dinner and gift exchange at the home of Mrs. Mericle's mother, Mrs. Miles Berkey, and other relatives.

Mrs. Rosalind Cline of Tucson, Ariz. has been a guest the past two weeks of her friend, Mrs. Alice Herkimer of Denton Road.

Mrs. Faye Lindemann left last Friday for her home at Highland Beach, Fla. after having been a guest of her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Traskos and family of Riggs Road and other relatives over the holidays.

Another guest, Herbert Lane, of Delray Beach, Fla., returned home the previous week.

On Friday, Jan. 5, friends of Betty Fulton — Blanche Clark, Connie Brinkerhoff, Vivian Koss and Sue Pieknik, all of Belleville, enjoyed breakfast together at the Red Apple. Betty, who had spent the past eight days visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity, left Saturday for her home at North Lauderdale, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Collins of Borgman Street have returned from Vian, Okla., where they had spent some time with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fink and family.

Jeff Dolph, the son of the Gerry Dolphs of West Huron River Drive, returned home recently after having spent a week with his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Poprie at LeRoy.

Mrs. Alice Herkimer of Denton Road and Mrs. Gertrude Mason of West Columbia Avenue spent the weekend at Pottersville with the former's mother, Mrs. Helen Riggs, who is at the home of her granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dewain Watson.

For the traditional Christmas Eve feast, "wiglia", celebrated by those of Polish descent, Frances Korgal entertained members of her family. Present were Ed and Jean Wenderski of Detroit; the Pete Korgal, Jim Schultz and Frank Korgal families and Mike and Ann Dunayczan.

On New Year's Eve the Pete Korgals had the family over for a party in his decorated garage with Joan and Mike McDaniels joining them. On New Year's Day the Mike Dunayczans gave a birthday party in honor of Walter Dunayczan of Lake Columbia.

WCC reopens dining room to the public

The Culinary Arts dining room at Washtenaw Community College reopened Jan. 15, offering a full service lunch for the public as part of the College's restaurant management program.

Students, under the direction of James Beaton, Don Garrett and Jill Gannon, prepare and serve the meals in a dining room on the College's campus at 4800 East Huron River Drive.

"This is not a short-order cafeteria," Beaton emphasizes, noting accoutrements of linens and flowers as well as a diverse menu in the "classroom" restaurant.

The lunches at the restaurant are served Monday through Thursday from 11:45 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on the first floor of the Student Center Building of the College.

Further information about the lunch program and about the culinary arts curriculum at WCC is available by phoning 973-3584.

Brownies, cupcakes for butterscotch lovers

Although an official count has never been confirmed by a Gallup poll, there probably are almost as many butterscotch lovers as there are chocolate fans. The flavor of butterscotch, ordinarily associated with brown sugar, is derived from the delectable use of mild unsulphured molasses in these recipes for taste tempting cupcakes and amber brownies.

Once you've sampled the butterscotch richness of these recipes, you'll not be surprised that a convenient and less expensive substitute for brown sugar is easily made by combining ordinary plain white sugar with unsulphured molasses. For each half cup brown sugar in a recipe, simply use a half cup of white sugar and two tablespoons of unsulphured molasses. There's no need to pre-mix the sugar and molasses, if they are to be blended with other ingredients in a recipe.

Butterscotch Swirl Cupcakes have a baked-on cream cheese topping studded with butterscotch morsels. There's no need for extra frosting to top these golden treats.

Test kitchen home economists who developed this recipe report that their taste testers were unanimous in rating these cupcakes in the "best ever" category. Expect your own "taste testers" to voice similar opinions whether you serve these cupcakes as a dessert for company or as a between-meal snack with a glass of milk.

Because of the cream cheese topping, extra cupcakes should be refrigerated or frozen.

The butterscotch brownies are the moist, chewy variety — easily mixed in a saucepan.

A collection of other tested molasses recipe favorites is available for 25 cents postage and handling from Box 1371-A, Rochester, NY 14603.

Butterscotch Swirl Cupcakes

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup unsulphured molasses
- 1 egg
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1/2 tsp. allspice
- 1/2 cup milk
- about 2 teaspoons sugar

Cheese Topping

- 1 8-oz. package cream cheese
- 1 egg
- one-third cup sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 6 oz. butterscotch chips

To prepare cheese topping, combine cream cheese, egg, sugar, and salt and mix well. Stir in chips and set aside.

The same beater can be used to prepare the cake batter. Cream butter and sugar. Add egg and molasses and mix. (Mixture may appear curdled but becomes smooth when flour is added.) Sift together the flour, soda, and allspice. Add dry ingredients and milk and beat well.

Fill two dozen paper-lined muffin cups about 1/2 full with cake batter. Top each one with a heaping tablespoon of cheese mixture. Sprinkle lightly with extra sugar. Bake at 350 degrees, 20-30 minutes.

Refrigerate or freeze leftovers. Yields: 24 cupcakes.

Butterscotch Brownies

- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- one-third cup butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup unsulphured molasses
- two-thirds cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Sift flour, baking powder, soda, and salt onto wax paper. Melt butter in medium-size saucepan over moderate heat (or melt butter in mixing bowl in microwave oven). Remove from heat and add molasses, sugar and vanilla; stir until smooth. Beat in egg. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Stir in nuts. Bake in a greased and floured 9x9x2-inch pan at 350 degrees, for 25-35 minutes. Don't overbake. Brownies are done when a slight imprint shows when lightly pressed with fingertip.

Yields: about 20-24 brownies.

Golden treats

The aroma of hot Butterscotch Swirl Cupcakes will have your family asking for more after they taste these golden treats. Great as a dessert for company or as a between-meal snack with a glass of milk, there's no need for frosting these cupcakes, which wear a baked-on cream cheese topping, studded with butterscotch.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

There's something about the start of a new year that unleashes a somewhat latent thirst for culinary prowess in me — in other words, the desire to mess around in the kitchen with new recipes.

I get on this kick the minute I replace my beat-up old calendar (the story of my life on it) with a fresh, crisp folder full of blank little squares. First-of-the-year-itis is a common malady with me and I turn hungrily to that sheaf of papers collectively tagged "new recipes to try."

Despite the fact that we're back to being a twosome (and neither of us wants too much to eat) I've found myself eagerly scanning the many casseroles, salads and particularly, desserts, that I've clipped over the past months from "Cuisine", "Better Homes and Gardens", "Good Housekeeping" and the local newspapers plus all the super-sounding recipes I received at the office.

As a favor to both of us, I DO steer away from those calorie-loaded meal finales, keeping them tucked aside for potluck affairs or when I can coerce folks to "join us for cake and coffee."

To Betty W. (whose coffee cake I so enjoyed at a bowling party last year) I just want to say, I FINALLY made it!

Marilyn, thanks for sharing your cake recipe. I'll be co-hosting a shower shortly and it just might fill the bill for dessert.

Marian, I still need that missing ingredient for your cake and everytime I talk to you I forget to ask.

Maureen, if you're ready to tackle still another pot-of-soup, I've a New England bean concoction with which you can surprise your family. (See, I'm trying to get EVERYONE into the act.)

Included in my 1979 cooking mania have been several interesting spinach salads (think thin) and the dressing I experimented on last night (NOT for thinsville) just might appeal to green salad fans.

The sweet and sour mixture I'm sharing was used to coat fresh spinach (which had been torn into bite-sized pieces) thin slices of carrot and the orange half (cut up) that'd been lying listlessly in the crisper. I followed no printed recipe, just put together things that were handy.

The dressing, which requires no cooking (and no bacon frying for a change), follows. For the two of us, I used half portions. Hope you like it!

SWEET AND SOUR DRESSING

¾ cup vegetable oil
½ cup maple syrup
½ to ½ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds
½ teaspoon dry mustard
pinch ginger

Combine all ingredients in a jar (I used a cruet from Good Seasonings mix), cover and mix well. Chill before lightly coating your greens. The full recipe makes about 6 servings.

According to Sydney Harris of the Detroit Free Press, every single working day of the year a cookbook is published in the U.S. It leads one to wonder, he says, who buys them, who reads them and how can the level of cooking in our country remain so lamentably low? (Speak for your own kitchen, Syd.)

Something I forgot to mention in previous columns was the Christmas note we received from the Turneys, now residents of the Carolina Trace in Sanford, N.C.

When we were there last fall walking through her neighborhood, Virginia pointed out a sign on the empty lot next to theirs bearing the name and title of the owner — a U.S. ambassador to a place none of us had heard of although it DID have a familiar ring.

Having just moved, atlases and world globes were not readily accessible at our hosts' place so we tucked the quest away for a later date.

Several weeks after, when the mass suicide of cultists in South America was being splashed over newspapers and on television screens, a little computer in my brain sent the message, "You've heard of this place before, but where?"

Included in Virginia's holiday letter was the line, "Needless to say, it was never necessary for us to look up the location of our neighbor's ambassadorship."

It was Guyana.

Publicly admitting you don't much care for Johnny Carson is, I fear, like stating you hate baseball, hot dogs, apple pie and you-know-what (please note, Kurt!) Not wanting to be thought completely un-American, I WOULD campaign for three of those four but J.C. (and I think he's beginning to believe those initials) leaves me cold.

And is it just me or do other TV viewers find "Family's" newest member, played by Quinn Cummings, one giant turn-off? I just sorta like to see kids smile, laugh and ACT like kids once in awhile. For my tastes, you guys at ABC, she's just too precocious to be likeable. I sure wouldn't want her around my house.

And do we ALWAYS have to have the dumb-but-sexy blonde syndrome throwp at us (even in this day of utter realism?) Another big yuk goes out to promoters of a rather messy Suzanne Sommers (Somers?) (No, fellas, it's NOT sour grapes.)

The above "thumbs-down" bravado was prompted by Bob Talbert's recent list of his pet "turn-offs". HE planted the seed.

If you ever have cause to wonder which was the last state admitted to the union, just remember Hawaii Five-O stands for Hawaii, the 50th.

Having observed a cross section of hostesses over the years, I've noticed what sets the successes apart from the flops.

The winners never, but never, let you feel they are being put upon to have their party. They are enthused about giving it, delighted to have you, pleased when it's complimented and sorry to see it end.

The losers always, but always, let you know they are worn out from preparing for the party, elaborate with a blow-by-blow account of where they had to shop, how many hours spent on food preparation, how exhausted they are from cleaning, and, as you leave, somehow impart the message that they're sure glad it's over.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Marriages are supposedly made in heaven but then — so are thunder and lightning.

After the ceremony punch and cookies were served by the hostess and her committee members: Elsie Robinson, Ruby Taul, Mabel Ries, Annabelle McIlwain, Eileen Perry and Bertha Dennard.

Three newcomers were welcomed into the club at the first meeting of the year: Dorothy McNutt, Marion James and Oliver J. Bell.

A calendar of events and activities is planned for 1979 which will keep members plenty busy, the new president said.

On hand to welcome their mother and new brother home were Tara Lynne, seven and a half, and Justin Christopher, four and a half.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown
A musical education can be helpful in all of your child's educational pursuits. Studies have shown that piano students, for instance, generally get better grades in all of their courses. The mental discipline that comes from piano or musical lessons is transferable to all studies. Music lessons teach coordination, concentration, how to analyze, and how to remember. In addition to the eventual training, the enjoyment of being able to master an instrument should not be overlooked, particularly as the child matures and becomes an adult.
Whatever your musical ability, whatever your musical taste DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484 has just the perfect instrument for you. We also offer the best in professional instruction for the beginning students as well as the more advanced. "Full Line" Master Charge and Visa honored.

BENEFITS OF MOURNING CUSTOMS
Attending a wake, making a condolence call, offering help to the bereaved — all are two-way acts of caregiving.
These morning practices directly benefit the bereaved family and one's self. In her book, "Death, the Final Stage of Growth," Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross advises that the purpose of mourning should be to allow for a full outpouring of grief. Mourning becomes the opportunity for the family to re-group after the loss of a member, especially to be able, then, to continue living, loving, work and enjoying one and other.
By getting this outpouring of grief early, we help to prevent pent-up feelings of guilt and regret from blossoming later with psychologically unhealthy repercussions. "Getting it out of your system" as soon as possible is appropriate therapy in most instances, experts agree.
This is one of a series of brief articles we hope we will find helpful. You may ask us questions for yourself and of public interest.

Buddy Rich appears at Music Hall

Popular drummer Buddy Rich brings his Buddy Rich band, featuring Steve Marcus on tenor sax, to Detroit's historic Music Hall Center for one night only on Sunday.

Rich's career started at the age of three when he joined his parents on the vaudeville stage, playing the drums to "Stars and Stripes Forever." During his long and successful career, he has played with Bunny Berrigan, Artie Shaw and the Tommy Dorsey Band, to name a few.

After a stint with the Harry James Band in the early '60s, Rich formed his own group and has developed a sound and a following that keeps him booked throughout the year in every corner of the nation.

His appearances on network television and his inimitable personality have made him one of the best known drummers of all time. His recent album with jazz great Mel Torme has won acclaim from critics as the long-overdue teaming of two musical giants.

Buddy Rich's Music Hall concert begins at 6:30 p.m., and tickets are available at the box office, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit. It is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Phone orders are accepted by calling 963-7680. Group rates are available through Joan Heidt at 963-7622.

On Jan. 24 - 27, Detroit's historic Music Hall Center hosts the young and vibrant Joyce Trisler Dance company from New York.

Joyce Trisler, the Dancscompany's artistic director, is a dominating force in today's dance world. She was formerly a principal dancer with Alvin Ailey's company and has studied under famed choreographers Lester Horton and Doris Humphrey.

Highly acclaimed for her original works, Joyce Trisler has choreographed many productions for the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, the New York Shakespeare Festival, the New York City Opera and the Broadway stage.

The Dancscompany's Detroit program highlights the seductive movement of contemporary jazz, as well as the artistry of modern dance technique. Joyce Trisler's "Little Red Riding Hood," a mean, hip swinging "urban fable," is danced to famous songs of Duke Ellington including, "Take the A Train." Excerpts from "The Spirit of Denishawn" returns to the early forms of modern dance. Sixty years ago, dancers Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn joined together in matrimony and choreography to become the mother and father of modern dance. "The Spirit of Denishawn" is an expression of their classroom technique and a sample of their dramatic use of scarves, capes and flowing fabric.

Also featured in the Dancscompany's Detroit performances is the flashy, colorful.

"Butterfly," a number often danced by Alvin Ailey's company.

This high-energy contemporary dance company can be seen Wednesday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. with matinees on Thursday at 1 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m. Tickets are available Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, or by calling 963-7680. Group rates are available through Joan Heidt, 963-7622.

The first iron printing press to be used was the Stanhope press, invented by Charles, the third Earl of Stanhope in 1798.

DSO presents Gershwin program

Detroit Symphony Orchestra Conductor-in-Residence Paul Freeman will be on the podium as the DSO presents a special all-Gershwin program at Ford Auditorium at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday. Featured in this Sunday Kresge Family Concert will be pianist Leon Bates, soprano Irene Oliver, bass-baritone Benjamin Matthews, and the Morgan State University Choir.

The program will include Gershwin's "An American in Paris"; "Rhapsody in Blue"; and selections from "Porgy and Bess".

Benjamin Matthews makes his fourth appearance with the orchestra in this performance, having first sung with the DSO in the 1974 Christmas Festival. Pianist Leon Bates, soprano Irene Oliver, and the Morgan State University Choir are all making their debut appearances with the Detroit Symphony.

Tickets for the Sunday afternoon Kresge Concert are available at the Ford Auditorium Box Office.

Freeman, conductor-in-residence of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, was recently appointed music director of the Saginaw Symphony. In addition to sharing his time with both orchestras, he maintains a very active guest-conducting schedule in this country and abroad. He has conducted some 18 major orchestras in the USA and more than 25 European orchestras, in Germany, Poland, England, Italy, Luxembourg, and Scandinavia.

In 1974-76 he served as Principal Guest-Conductor of the Helsinki Philharmonic & associate conductor of the Dallas Symphony from 1968-70.

A young man's vacation memory from 1959

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The following story was submitted by Mrs. Fred (Ina) Lunde, a member of the Belleville community and an active participant in the September Days Senior Citizen Club. Mrs.

Lunde is one of three students taking a creative writing class from Mrs. Lois Morioka who teaches adult education at Huron High School. The story, written through the eyes of Mrs. Lunde's then 11-14 year-old grandson (now in his 30's), tells of his yearly summer vacations with his grandparents in Belleville. Since the "older set" and newcomers alike seem to enjoy a bit of nostalgia from time to time, we are including Mrs. Lunde's story in this week's Suburban Living section.)

PART I

My clothes are packed and I am waiting for Dad to take me to Grandma and Grandad's house for my summer vacation.

"All aboard", called Dad, and climbing into the car I replied, "I'm ready." And away we went. It was only about eight miles to Belleville where they lived right in the middle of town. Their house was surrounded with the most beautiful big elm trees and the house was green and white nestled there so snugly and homey.

Hopping out I ran to the door, but Grandma had heard us coming and was at the door with a hug and a kiss.

"I've been waiting for you," she said. Come in and let's hear all about your life this year."

Her kitchen smelled good as it always did, with either a pot of chili stewing or cookies just out of the oven. She had worked hard in their dairy, making ice cream and bottling milk when they first started their business, but now their employees did the hardest work and she and Grandad just managed the business and filled in when needed.

Dad left for home and Grandma took me upstairs where a big white bed waited for me. Everything was so clean and with the attic fan on, the breeze from the window beside the bed blew the curtains clear across the foot of the bed. I could almost hear them say "Glad to see you again, we missed you."

After putting everything away in the big chest of drawers, we went downstairs and there was Grandad. Another big hug and kiss and I was settled in their lives for another happy three months.

We all had lunch and out I went with Grandad to deliver ice cream. His white Oldsmobile station wagon was loaded to the very top with 3-gallon cans of all kinds of ice cream. Then out we went to Edison Park which had all kinds of amusements, swimming and other things to do in a picnic grounds.

Everybody knew Grandad in Belleville and surrounding environs, so it was always such fun to go anywhere with him. Always a "Hi, Fred" where ever we went. It wasn't any different today, so it took quite a while to get away. The girls especially liked Grandad as he was always nice to them, complimenting them no matter what their job, important or not, and they felt good in their work. He always made everyone feel that way.

Back to the dairy and out to the Dairy Bar. Working behind the counter was fun, but pleasing everyone was another job. I learned a great deal from the encounter with the public. We always had about 10 different flavors of ice cream and cleaning out the last in each container was always a task.

"Grandma," I said one day, "let's invent a new ice cream." Her reply as usual, "Okay go ahead, let's hear about it."

"Let's call it Tutti-Frutte," I said. And so I began a mixture of all the scraps in each container. It was beautiful with swirls of colors and nuts. The colors were super, so each day we had the new ice cream and could hardly keep enough in stock. The cones went out of there in high stacks of rainbow colors.

I was always proud that Grandad trusted me to wait on customers and let me use the cash register just like he did. How important this is to young folks growing up! More trust should be given them to make responsibility more enviable.

We closed the Dairy Bar at 6 p.m. Being summer it was still light, so Grandma would send me down to Doan's Marina by the bridge where they sold worms. There I got night crawlers and small red worms. Across the street Mr. and Mrs. Price lived and we were always welcome to go there to fish. Here we could forget all about the dairy, telephones and work of all kinds. Usually Grandma had a box of cookies under her arm plus a paper towel roll. This was for the dirty hands from worms, because cookies didn't mix with putting on worms. She made me do my own baiting of hooks. We would sit thereby the hour and have a ball.

(Part II next week)

Local talent 'on stage'

The highlight of the holiday season at St. Anthony's School was the special Student Talent Show presented to the members of the eight grades and faculty as well as some 30 interested parents, all of whom had been invited to attend. Tap dancing, Irish dancing, acrobatics, ballet, disco, skits, vocal soloists and guitar and piano performances were on the bill of entertainment. Handled entirely by the student body, auditions were held and selections made for the show with some 50 students participating. Among those "on stage" were Rhonda Collins (from left), Deirdre Sanders, Erin Sanders, Pat Villeneuve, Hilly Jansen, Pat Kosin and Renee Kasperek. In the front row (same order) are Shannon Sanders, Veronica Franzoi, Lynette Babik and Leah Murray. Caught "in the act" (below) is Pat Kosin doing a tap routine.

Now, how could we make it any simpler than that?
